De Gaulle On Mission Of Mystery

PARIS (AP)—Gen. Charles de Gaulle sped to Paris from his village home last night on a suspenseful mission of mystery that may either resolve or darken the great French dilemma.

Insurgents in Algeria predicted jubilantly that the Paris government of Premier Pflimlin would collapse without a push.

A police commissioner standing guard at Pflimlin's Matignon Palace offices announced just before 11 p.m. (Paris time) that De Gaulle had arrived on the outskirts.

De Gaulle's big black limousine pulled in at the Charenton Gate on the southeast edge of the city. Where De Gaulle went from there was a mystery.

Rumored Meeting

There were rumors De Gaulle might be meeting Pflimlin or his intermediaries in a suburb.

In Algiers, the Gaullist, anti-Paris regime added potential naval-air strength to its military power but indicated it felt De Gaulle would rise to power without force. Ships of the French Mediterranean fleet—reported to total 17 vessels—arrived at three Algerian ports.

They were on NATO maneuvers off Malta and are under command of Adm. Philippe Aboyneau, who had thrown in with the Gaullists.

In Paris, the big Communist led General Confederation of Labor called a general strike for Tuesday after hearing of De Gaulle's trip to Paris.

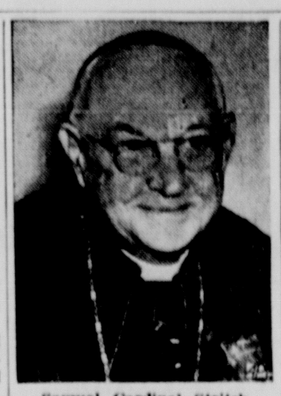
Also confronting the harried Pflimlin government was an announcement by Tunisian President Habib Bouguiba that he will complain to the U. N. about French troops and violence in Tunisia. The Tunisians have demanded that France pull all its troops out of that former North African protectorate. Renewed fighting in southern Tunisia over the weekend sent tension soaring again.

National Assembly

The National Assembly met in an effort to take steps to keep the spreading Gaullist insurrection from engulfing France itself.

Pflimlin told the deputies civil war threatened. The Assembly voted to suspend parliamentary privileges of deputies who incite rebellion. Its action was aimed at deputies who have been in the forefront of insurrectional movements in Algeria and Corsica.

In one immediate action the assembly lifted the parliamentary immunity of Pascal Arrighi, who was in the forefront of the uprising in Corsica Saturday.



Samuel Cardinal Stritch

Cardinal Stritch Dies In Rome

ROME, Tuesday (AP) — Samuel Cardinal Stritch died today.

He had been unable to take nourishment for two days.

The end came a month after the 70-year-old Roman Catholic archbishop of Chicago arrived in Rome. He was to direct the Church's missionary activities as pro-prefect of the Congregation for Propagation of the Faith.

Cardinal Stritch had been steadily losing ground since he suffered a paralyzing stroke a week ago. The stroke came three weeks after his right arm had been amputated above the elbow to eliminate the danger of gangrene from a blood clot.

The cardinal was pronounced dead at 1:35 a.m. by Dr. Raimondo di Grando, staff physician at Rome's Sanatrix Clinic.

Highest Rank

Cardinal Stritch attained the highest rank in the Roman Catholic church ever granted to an American prelate.

He was appointed on March 1, 1958, by Pope Pius XII as cardinal pro-prefect of the Congregation for the Propagation of the Faith and as a member of the Curia, the supreme governing body of the church. This was the summit of a lifetime of achievement.

Cardinal Stritch was born Aug. 27, 1887 in Nashville, Tenn. He completed the equivalent of a high school course at the age of 14 and at 17 received a bachelor of arts degree from St. Gregory's College in Cincinnati.

He was sent to Rome to continue his theological education. While studying there he became a good friend of a young priest named Eugenio Pacelli, destined to become Pope Pius XII. Stritch was ordained a priest in Rome at the age of 22 under terms of a special dispensation. Priests ordinarily are not ordained until the age of 24.

His first assignment was as assistant pastor of St. Patrick's Church in Memphis, Tenn. Soon he became pastor and in 1916 was named the bishop's secretary and the next year chancellor of Nashville Diocese.

Four years later, he was named bishop of Toledo, Ohio, and was consecrated Nov. 30, 1921. Then only 34, he was the youngest member of the Roman Catholic hierarchy in the United States.

In 1930 he was named archbishop of Milwaukee. He had shown outstanding success in the See of Toledo, where the Catholic membership had increased by more than a third.

In January 1940 he was named archbishop of Chicago.

In December 1945 he was elevated to the College of Cardinals as one of four American prelates named at that time to this high council of the church.

Eisenhower Opposes Cut In Taxes

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower took a stand yesterday against any big tax cut as a way to attack the recession.

Furthermore, Eisenhower asked that Congress act to prevent cuts of three billion dollars in corporation and excise taxes due to take effect July 1.

Eisenhower's decision, announced by Press Secretary James C. Hagerty, climaxed months of speculation as to whether the administration would decide for or against general tax reduction.

The certainty of heavy red ink spending probably helped influence Eisenhower against cutting the government's revenue. Revenue has been declining because of slackened business.

This was how it went yesterday:

Secretary of the Treasury Anderson conferred with both Democratic and Republican congressional leaders.

Anderson then reported to Eisenhower, and the President notified Vice President Nixon, the Senate's presiding officer, and House Speaker Sam Rayburn (D-Tex) that the administration wished to continue corporation and excise taxes at their present level.

Question

Hagerty was asked whether this decision amounted to ruling out any tax reductions at this time. He replied:

"The Treasury, as always, will study and evaluate all proposals and the entire tax situation, and will act in the light of the economic situation as it develops.

"It means there are no present intentions on the part of the administration to send any further tax reduction proposals to the Congress other than those already submitted."

Those that have been submitted deal with relief for small business, Hagerty said.

House Democratic leaders arranged for a get-together with Democratic members of the tax-writing House Ways and Means Committee this morning. Then Speaker Rayburn and committee Chairman Wilbus Mills (D-Ark) are expected to issue statements supporting the White House stand.

A huddle of Republican committee members was reported in the works for this afternoon.

Then tomorrow or Thursday, probably, the committee is expected to meet to vote out a bill extending the corporate and excise tax rates for another year.

Unless Congress heads it off, the corporation income tax rate will take a drop from 52 to 47 per cent July 1. This rate and most of the present excise rates were imposed during the Korean War.

Area Contains 80 Percent Of State's Resorts

POCONO MOUNTAINS REGIONS — with more than 80 percent of the resort and vacation spots in the Commonwealth — should be headed for a record business year.

Figures released by the Pennsylvania State Department of Commerce in Harrisburg show that inquiries from tourists and vacationers are more than double the number last year during the first quarter.

Harold A. Swenson, director of vacation and travel for the Department, said that Commerce has received 77,785 inquiries during the first four months of this year.

Secretary of Commerce William Davlin pointed out that the year-long record of inquiries for the Department was reached in 1957 when 204,000 were received. Davlin predicts that this year's level will top the previous record.

At the same time, the Department has released figures which show that activity on the part of the Vacation and Travel Bureau has been greatly intensified and apparently much more effective during the past four years, based on first-quarter reports.

In 1954, for example, the bureau handled only 21,087 inquiries. The following year this total jumped to 26,350. With a marked slump in 1956 to 21,235 the Bureau's work load of inquiry zipped back up to 32,943 in 1957. All of these figures are for the first four months of each year mentioned.

As part of its promotional activity, the Vacation and Travel Bureau has set up numerous "traveling exhibits." One of the largest and most important of these was the section set up at the Pennsylvania Sportsmens and Recreation Show in Harrisburg. It was seen by more than 100,000 visitors.

During the past seven months the display has been taken to four "out of state" shows. These were in Hartford, New York (two separate shows here) and Cleveland. There have been six additional showings in Pennsylvania.

Altogether the exhibit has been seen by an estimated 850,000 persons.

Traveling Displays

Throughout most of the showings, the Department and its Bureau have had the close cooperation of Pocono Mountains officials. Among them: C. Elwood Huffman, Marshalls Creek, president of the Pennsylvania Game Commission and owner of Mountain Lake House, a resort; Mr. and Mrs. J. Horace Strunk of the Pocono Mountains Vacation Bureau and Weldon S. (Bill) Garrison, general manager of Shawnee Inn and a representative of the Pennsylvania Hotel Assn.

In addition to its traveling displays, the Department has concentrated heavily on national and regional advertising for the State's vacation areas.

This year's theme is "The State of 1001 Vacation Pleasures." To plug the theme, advertising insertions have been made in 27 newspapers in nine States and the District of Columbia. They have a readership of about 13,000,000.

Most significant is the travel advertising being carried in national magazines with a combined circulation of 33,000,000.

Major magazines used in the promotion campaign are Life, Look and the Saturday Evening Post. Others include: Woman's Day, TV-Guide, Charm, Field and Stream, Coronet, Household, Outdoor Life, Sports Afield, Holiday, National Geographic, Mademoiselle, Sports Illustrated, Boys' Life, Elks, Esquire and Cosmopolitan.

Early advertisements carried a "plan ahead" theme. Department officials believe this may account, in part, for heavier inquiries.

Bomb Claims Six Lives In Lebanon

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — A bomb explosion in a street car killed six persons yesterday on the eve of a reported compromise between Lebanon's pro-Western government end its political opposition.

The bomb wrecked the car and wounded 20 persons. It was the bloodiest single act of terrorism since rioting and a general strike against the government began 17 days ago.

Later in the day another bomb exploded in the garden of British Ambassador George Middleton's home. It rocked the neighborhood but caused no damage to the ambassador's home. There were no casualties.

False Indication

A relatively quiet weekend and increased use of public transportation earlier had indicated the strike might be waning.

The government announced, meanwhile, that Parliament will meet today for the first time since the strike began.

Premier Sami Solh is expected to tell Parliament his government will not permit alteration of the constitution to allow President Camille Chamoun to win another six-year term. Solh reportedly also will announce that a new president will be chosen by Parliament in July, the earliest date possible under the constitution.

Opponents of Chamoun have expressed fear he would have Parliament amend the constitution so he could be re-elected. But the pro-Western leader has never announced his plans.

Navy Plane Sets Five World Marks

CORPUS CHRISTI, Tex. (AP) —A Navy Douglas F4D1 Skyray supersonic fighter has set five official world records for climbing speed, the Navy has announced.

All the records were set at Point Mugu, Calif., May 22 and 23 by Marine Corps Maj. Edward N. LeFaivre of Baltimore, Md.

The most spectacular climb, the first record of its kind, was from the ground to 15,000 meters—49,213 feet—in 2 minutes, 36:05 seconds.

In this and the other flights, LeFaivre was climbing almost vertically at 9-10th the speed of sound, the fastest such upon record.

Operational

The Skyray is an operational airplane, and has been with Navy and Marine Corps squadrons for more than two years.

The F5D1, powered by a Pratt & Whitney J57-P8 jet engine, also is used by the North American Air Defense Command as an all-weather interceptor.

The four other marks established by LeFaivre broke records formerly held by a French jet, the Nord-1405 Gerfaut-88, set at Istre, France, on Feb. 16, 1957.

The four other records:

1. Climb to 4,000 meters—9,842.5 feet—44.39 seconds.
2. To 6,000 meters—19,685 feet—1 minute, 6.13 seconds.
3. To 9,000 meters—29,527.5 feet—1 minute, 29.81 seconds.
4. To 12,000 meters—39,370 feet—1 minute, 51.23 seconds.

Exchange Club Honors Ruth Flory

By Leonard Randolph

RUTH FLORY is a teacher. Technically her title is teacher of mathematics.

But, like all good teachers, she has majored in the field of compassion and love for human beings.

Last night the Exchange Club of East Stroudsburg gave Ruth Flory its 10th annual Golden Deeds award.

It was the first of the awards to be given to a teacher. But then we are living in an age of somewhat recognition for the intellect and for the teacher.

Ruth Flory was no stranger to the roomful of people at Mountain Lake House. When Gilbert Dunning, as toastmaster, (a former student of Miss Flory) asked those who had "sat in Miss Flory's classroom" to stand up, more than a quarter of those in the room rose.

And her reputation and the respect she has earned were not all born in the classroom. She has been an active churchwoman; is now an elder — the first woman to ever hold that office in the East Stroudsburg Presbyterian Church.

In the citation presented to the J.M. Hill School teacher, the club honored her for her "gentle nature . . . tolerant disposition . . . her compassion for those less fortunate" and her immeasurable contributions to the spiritual and cultural life of the community. It was read to the audience by Horace G. Walters, Golden Deeds awards committee chairman.

Then Ruth Flory stood up, was soundly bussed by the committee chairman and looked through blinking lashes at the men, women and children in the room.

Not given to making speeches, Ruth Flory gave what is probably one of the finest the Exchange Club has heard in its long history. It was a finer one because it went so many miles and years beyond the room in which it was spoken.

But there were other speeches, too, to be heard. There was a serious and, in its own way, excellent talk by Dr. Ralph Swan, deputy superintendent of the State Department of Public Instruction:

"We are learning now that the people in classrooms are in front ranks of our national security. Never before has an educated and enlightened people been so important to our nation.

"Earlier tonight when someone explained to me that Miss Flory was a mathematics teacher, someone else broke in to say: Oh, yes. But she's taught so much more than that.

"I think the most valuable product of any nation in the future will be individuals who have developed minds and sympathetic hearts. In the race toward scientific achievement we must continue to produce sound social historians and linguists. . . to share with the scientists the promise that is ours.

"I am certain that the struggle in which we are engaged will be one of the mind and the heart. The heart of the education system is the classroom teacher. Those of us in administration can justify our work only as we held the classroom teacher to improve herself and the quality of classroom instruction.

"The teacher is a builder because she works with the finest of all values in a civilization. . . The finest of all arts is the development and inspiration of human souls."

For a personal history of Ruth Flory's life, the club had called on long-time friend Mrs. Charles B. Schaller. Mrs. Schaller highlighted Miss Flory's "wonderful spirit of friendship" and went on to say:

"I think the most wonderful thing about being a teacher is that you have such a wonderful opportunity to mold character. The greatest teacher of all times is the one Ruth Flory follows, the one who said: Inasmuch as ye have done it unto one of the least of my brethren, ye have done it unto Me."

But it was still Ruth Flory, mathematics teacher and humanitarian who fitted the pieces together and came up with the summation.

Arising to accept the Golden Deeds award, her eyes shining, her lips a little dry her hands trembling, Miss Flory said:

VFW Poppy Sales To Be For Two Days

"IN VETERANS hospitals throughout the country, our disabled servicemen are busy fashioning the VFW Buddy Poppies, which will go on sale in Monroe County tomorrow and Thursday, Commander George Straka of VFW Post 2540 announced yesterday.

"These poppies," continued the commander, "are replicas of the little crimson flowers that grow in 'Flanders Field.' The VFW Buddy Poppy is symbolic of the reverence in which we hold those men who gave their lives that this nation might live. Moreover, it is a living reminder that those who wear it have honored those dead, not in concrete and stone, but by helping the living who fought beside them.

"Our disabled veterans," declared Straka, "have themselves asked to make these Buddy Poppies. They receive pay for it, and at the same time advance their own rehabilitation by performing work of a constructive nature.

"Giving direct and prompt assistance to the incapacitated and the maladjusted, caring for the needy dependents of the deceased, seeing to it personally that our returned veterans do not lose faith in the future — these services constitute a gigantic task. A liberal donation when purchasing a Buddy Poppy helps carry out those things which must be done," concluded Commander Straka.

"We have a tremendous task before us, and we cannot fail those who need our help so badly. No one else could be more deserving," Straka concluded.

Cramer Resigns Post In Chamber

Shortway Post Demanding Full Time

THE RESIGNATION of Clifford L. Cramer as vice president of the Pocono Mountains Chamber of Commerce was accepted "with regret" at a meeting of the board of directors yesterday.

Cramer explained that he wishes to devote more time to his work as chairman of the Monroe County Chapter of the Keystone Shortway Assn.

Cramer, in his capacity as chairman of the group's highway committee, earlier reported that the W. Main St. bridge over Pocono Creek is expected to be open for Memorial Day traffic. He also reported on other area highway projects.

Ceremonies

Montgomery F. Crowe, president of the chamber and former Republican State Senator, urged all county organizations to be represented at the Memorial Day ground-breaking ceremonies for the Stroudsburg Thruway.

Crowe said Gov. George M. Leader will deliver a non-partisan address at the ground-breaking.

The directors approved withdrawal of $2,500 from the chamber's industrial fund to meet a payment on a $5,500 note which was taken out for construction of a pipe line to an industrial site in Stroud Township which will be occupied by an industry coming here.

J. Albert Groner, chairman of the service committee, reported that the group settled a parking lot problem between two firms, assisted Shaw Industries in getting trees on King St. which were interfering with loading and unloading removed and that the Interstate Commerce Commission has approved a Pocono Motor Freight request, backed by the service committee, to extend its operations to Hamilton Township, Northumberland County, Allentown, Bethlehem and Easton.

Firm To Break Ground For Plant

A NATIONALLY known manufacturer intends to break ground here June 2 for a new plant to serve its expanding business in the East, it was announced yesterday.

The Drackett Co., of Cincinnati, O., disclosed it had awarded the contract for construction of the new industrial building to Paul L. Edinger, Stroudsburg contractor.

The plant will be located just north of the Stroudsburgs on the Gravel Place property formerly owned by the Lackawanna Railroad. The plot is situated south of the Trumatic Machine and Tool Co. between the railroad tracks and Route 196, a concrete highway.

Railroad Siding

The Lackawanna will lay a siding from its main line tracks to give the new plant access to the railroad as well as the highway.

Drackett Co. at present manufacturers three prominent household products — Windex, Drano and Twinkle, the latter a paste copper cleaner. Its main plant is in Cincinnati. It also has plants in California and Puerto Rico. Roger Drackett is president of the company.

Negotiations to bring the plant to the Stroudsburgs were conducted locally by M. F. Crowe, president, and other members of Pocono Mountains Industries, Inc., an affiliate of the Pocono Mountains Chamber of Commerce.

Further details regarding the new plant, the number of persons it will employ and the target date for the start of operations will be announced at a later date, a company spokesman said last night.

Ruth Flory First Teacher To Receive 'Golden Deeds'

"Never before have I realized what a predicament Capt. Miles Standish was in. But we are kindred souls tonight. If I could have found a John Alden to do my talking for me tonight, I certainly should have done so.

"I am deeply honored to be the first teacher to receive the Golden Deeds award. I accept it on behalf of my colleagues and my administrators at East Stroudsburg Junior High School and the Area Joint School System.

"More than this I accept it on behalf of all teachers, everywhere. My work as a teacher has been duplicated time and time again.

"I want to pay tribute to the fine young people in our community — and to thank the Exchange Club for the interest it has shown in them. We hear so much about the very small percentage who need our help and encouragement that sometimes we forget the fine ones — and we have many of them.

"No teacher, no school system can be a success without the cooperation of the community. If we have the cooperation of the citizens of East Stroudsburg — as we have had — then our borough will become the finest community in the nation.

"On behalf of all teachers, everywhere, I accept this award with gratitude —in the spirit of the men who make it possible."

The voice was that of a silver-haired, smiling woman. But it was more than this.

It was the voice of a teacher who knows that teaching never ends with the classroom; that it has no boundaries; that it is something we learn each minute of every day and pass along to someone else along the way.

It was the voice of a woman in love: with life, with her profession, with the people she has known, with the word of God as she understands it and with the sheer joy of speaking the truth to mankind.

Welcome To Poconos

It's vacation time again, and a hearty welcome awaits the many thousands of visitors who will be spending at least a part of the Summer in the scenic Poconos.

Advance registrations at the several hundred hotels, inns and cottage colonies which dot the mountain resort region indicate the biggest season in Pocono area history.

The wide scope of leisure-time activities available to vacationists is steadily making the Pocono Mountains one of the very top tourist centers in the entire East.

For those who like participation sports, visitors have the choice of golf, tennis, archery, bowling, badminton, lawn bowling, trap-shooting and the seasonal sports like baseball, outdoor basketball and even football.

Countless streams, lakes and ponds provide plenty of room for boating in both sail and power-driven craft as well as row-boats and canoes. Swimming is perhaps the most popular of all the sports because of the profusion of pools—indoor and outdoor—and the great number of supervised bathing beaches.

Horse-back riding, hiking over scenic trails, camping, fishing and hunting are among the other sports which attract many hundreds of vacationers each Summer. Any number of these people return year after year because they find conditions perfectly suited to their tastes.

There are those who are not inclined toward participation sports who nevertheless come to the Poconos to relax in the comfortable and healthy mountain air away from the oppressive heat of city streets.

They may own Summer homes here or may prefer to spend their time at one of the several hundred resorts which range from the most luxurious to be found anywhere to the less pretentious.

The area's nearness to metropolitan centers along the Eastern Seaboard and to the west of here makes it a natural mecca for thousands of vacationists every season.

Tourists who are coming to the Poconos for the first time this year will find the welcome mat out for them throughout their stay. May they enjoy the time they spend in our midst and may they return again and again in the years to come.

Philadelphia Should Look Ahead

Philadelphia objections to the Shortway should vanish into thin air as soon as Philadelphians begin to understand the Shortway project. All that is needed is that they take a good look at it from an unprejudiced point of view.

The first thing they should get straight is that Philadelphia does not profit from bad roads, inadequate roads, or lack of roads in the central part of the state. Good roads are like good climate; they benefit the whole area. The Shortway, even if it could be built tomorrow, would not drain the life-bringing traffic away from Philadelphia; it would create a new channel for traffic which now has no satisfactory outlet.

Philadelphia, like the rest of us, should be looking ahead. It will take ten years to build the Shortway; and at the end of ten years, Philadelphia will need the Shortway as much as we do.

By that time, at the present rate of growth, Pennsylvania traffic will be at such volume that the Pennsylvania Turnpike and all the other major roads of the state will be heavily burdened, and the Shortway will feed Philadelphia as much as New York. It is as foolish for Philadelphia to complain about the Shortway as it would be for Cleveland or Cincinnati to object to it, because it might benefit Chicago.

The Pennsylvania Story

Check, Double-Check

By Mason Denison

Harrisburg — A thorn that has been pricking the side of the Leader Administration during the past year shows no signs of being dulled.

Despondent and despairing administration officials have all but given up any hope of efectively removing the thorn from an already well bruised and pockmarked hide.

What has been happening during the past 12 months is interesting and undoubtedly worth noting.

A year ago this month a newly elected (not appointive) State Auditor General moved into office for a four-year stint. It so happens that the new Auditor General, a balding gent from Philadelphia in his near-fifties by name of Charles C. Smith is of the opposite political faith of that of the Democratic Leader Administration.

Confronted with this fact it would seem safe to say that a "conflict" of ideologies, administrative practices and procedures would be inevitable.

Processing Agency

This is precisely what has happened—but interestingly it was not the case during the first two years of the Leader Administration—when another Republican Auditor General held office.

In those two "honeymoon" years of the Leader Administration the legislatively-charged auditing agency of the Auditor General's Department was largely a procedural agency—processing, and that was it.

Auditor General Smith's crew taken a different view of the whole affair. Basically their concept has been one of: Let's check and double-check and make certain that procedures are followed as prescribed by law.

And therein lies the interesting tale.

At first the Leader Administration went into a huff and snuff over the Auditor General's questioning of some of its actions. Administration aids decided to ignore the challenges tossed in their direction by Republican Auditor General Smith, charging partisan obstructionism.

The one gimmick however that sent the administration off balance was the fact that by law expenditures had to be approved by the Auditor General's department before they could be paid.

The AG simply sat fast as one brush-off after another Administration found itself faced with more and more embarassing demands from vendors.

At first the Auditor General's department was blamed by the administration as holding up payments—but vendor appearances at the Auditor General's department produced correspondence and fact sheets showing that lo and behold the bills had been returned to the various departments for proper processing, with the administration then left in effect holding the bag.

Another facet covers the question of expense accounts of state employes, including ranking department heads and cabinet officers.

Large expense acounts drew the questioning of the Auditor General—until the point has been reached now that many a state employe is half afraid to turn in an expense account fearful of what might happen when it reaches the Auditor General's department.

(Interesque: many a Democratic department head, fighting to hold down such expense accounts anyway, privately is beaming over the restraining effect the AG's close look routine is having, in efect accomplishing what they themselves were unable to accomplish.)

The end is not yet in sight.

Who'll Dance At Wedding?

DEAR ABBY: My husband passed away four months ago. My daughter is getting married (She has to) as soon as I finish the hem on her dress. The wedding party plans to go to a hall for a wedding dance right after the ceremony. I don't feel much like dancing. Is it my duty to go to the wedding dance? Could I go to the dance and sit? This husband wasn't my daughter's real father so she can dance, can't she? Please steer me right.

IN MOURNING

DEAR IN: A wife in mourning should not go to a wedding dance. If your daughter feels like dancing, let her dance, but it seems to me a stepfather should rate more respect than he is being shown.

DEAR ABBY: I have a bone-headed sister-in-law who thinks she knows it all. Her little girl is almost four years old and she still drinks milk out of a bottle and nipple. Even the minister's wife told her that she was doing the wrong thing. This sister-in-law says that she doesn't care what anybody says, it won't do the child any harm and she would rather have her drink milk out of a bottle and nipple than not at all. What is your opinion?

George Sokolsky Says . . .

Nationalistic Urge

It has become very fashionable to try to frighten the American people into believing that if they do not do thus and so, a country will rush into the arms of Soviet Russia. The logic of it seems to be that if we do not obey the dictates of each harum-scarum little politician who emerges, he will send an invitation to Khrushchev to underwrite him.

That is what I get out of a statement issued by Harold B. Minor, President, American Friends of the Middle East, Inc. He starts off with these sentences:

"The American position in the Middle East has declined alarmingly in the last decade. Unless this decline is arrested, there is grave danger that American influence in that part of the world will be eliminated within a relatively short period of time. The result will be a drift, negative and unwanted by the peoples of the area, towards Soviet influence . . ."

There has been no such drift in the Middle East. What has taken place is an important, historical nationalist revolutionary movement which started as an Arab effort to free those countries from Turkish rule, culminating, in its first phase, in the defeat and break-up of the Turkish Empire during World War I.

The second phase of this movement was the emergence of Kemal in Turkey and of the Hashimites in the Arabic countries, the organization of the mandated areas, including Syria, Lebanon, Palestine, Transjordania, the establishment of a Jewish homeland in Palestine under the Balfour Declaration. This period ended in a struggle between Nazi Germany and the Allies for control of the area during World War II.

Five Factors

World War II produced an intensification of nationalism in the Middle East. At least five extraneous factors played a role in stimulating the Arab nationalist movement which had been more or less dormant for centuries.

One was the American supported missionary schools which had played an enormous part in developing a modern intellectual class in Arab countries, particularly in Lebanon and Syria. Another has been the competition during World War II between the Nazis and the Allies for Arab friendship and support.

It was President Roosevelt, for instance, who gave comfort and some financial assistance to the Arab League.

On the other hand, the establishment of Israel as an independent state by authority of the United Nations created a Western enclave in the Middle East which set standards of life so far beyond anything among Arab nations that Israel became a target of envy and opposition. Furthermore, the question of Arab refugees, which might have been solved by statesmanship, was used on all sides as a stimulant for disorder and disaster.

Soviet Russia moved upon the Middle East from several directions. It stimulated every anti-Western movement almost to the point of fomenting a holy war. Local political leaders took advantage of Soviet activity in their own interest. Thus the Arab world divided into two distinct groups of nations: those who supported the West; those who were willing to follow Soviet Russia.

The leader of the pro-Soviet Arabs is Nasser, the dictator of Egypt, a fiercely ambitious politician who seeks to establish a third power of enormous population and bargaining ability between the United States and its allies and Soviet Russia and its satellites. Nasser has succeeded in bringing Syria and Yemen into his orbit.

He is now attempting to conquer Lebanon by civil war. Given the opportunity, he would form an Arab state from the Atlantic to Pakistan with himself at its head.

Minor suggests that we "should look at the Middle East problem through American eyes and in the light of the American national interest..." This is an excellent suggestion but what are "American eyes"?

Are they the eyes of those Americans who distrust an upstart dictator, having witnessed the historic results of Mussolini and Hitler, or are they the eyes of the management of an oil company that worries about endangered properties, or are they the eyes of a Secretary of State who labors eternally to keep his country out of war, yet with dignity and honor?

Whose "American eyes" are we to look through?

Certainly it is not possible to trust to the judgment of Harold B. Minor who speaks well of the one he calls President Nasser. Must we always pay blackmail?

Jim Riley Says:

We Found Two Real Ambassadors

While trying to figure an angle for today's column, one that would figure in the Pocono Vacationland trend, my mind turned back one month, to a unique situation.

The situation occurred at Philadelphia's Graduate Hospital and it was a genuine boost for the Poconos, right from the heart.

When six men are hospital patients and confined to one large room, the topics of conversations range widely.

During my first day in the hospital somebody mentioned touring Europe and what the continent had to offer.

My ears almost burst as another of the patients answered, "Why go to Europe when you have the Pocono Mountains so near?"

It was at this point that I learned this man was Rev. Edward Horton, a retired Episcopal minister. It was also at this point that he found out for the first time that I was a resident of the Poconos.

Rev. Horton went on to explain just what the Poconos had and how they could match anything in Europe as far as scenery was concerned. He admitted that Europe had the more historic buildings, but no where in the world could the beauty match that of the Poconos.

As I listened I was convinced this fellow knew what he was talking about.

He quoted things and places in the Poconos that are usually facts known only to natives.

Rev. Horton quoted little used roads, streams, picnic areas, outstanding eating places, golf courses and inexpensive resorts.

He pointed with pride to the mountains he loved so much. He told all listeners of the years he had spent wandering throughout the Poconos and just what the area meant to him.

"I'm going up there for a vacation as soon as I get well," the Philadelphia resident added.

"So am I," came a voice from the doorway. "I never miss two weeks each summer at Unity House, nothing can beat the Poconos."

The most recent praise for the Poconos came from a garment union official who heard our comment from the hall and strolled into the room to get in on the chit-chat.

I propped myself up in bed and answered a question here and there or volunteered the name of a resort when our two newly found ambassadors faltered for a moment.

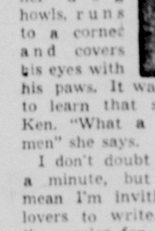
Never did any place in the word ever receive such heartfelt publicity. Our two friends meant every word of praise they uttered.

I'm sure their words resulted in at least two new vacation reservations in the Pocono Mountains this Summer — and maybe even more.

Robert S. Allen Reports . . .

Soviet Woos Congress

Washington — Ambassador Mikhail Menshikov is extending his unique efforts to "win friends and influence people" to a most unusual arena.



The Russian envoy is directly and actively wooing leaders of Congress.

Accompanied by members of his embassy staff, Menshikov is visiting the lawmakers in their Capitol offices, and earnestly proselyting them on two of the Kremlin's pet aims:

A "Big Two" summit meeting between President Eisenhower and Premier Khrushchev.

Increased trade between the U.S. and Russia.

The congressional leaders are also being cordially urged by Menshikov to be his guests at the ornate Soviet embassy — the one-time Pullman mansion.

"Come at any time," he invites warmly. "Breakfast, lunch, dinner; whenever it's convenient for you, it will be very convenient for me. I should like very much to make such meetings regular events. We could talk over many things."

In the past week, this remarkable personal "lobbying" by the Soviet Ambassador included the following:

Senator Theodore Green (D.,R.I.), chairman of the Foreign Relations Committee; Senator Alexander Wiley, Wis., and Senator H. Alexander Smith, ranking Republican members of that powerful Committee; Senator Mike Mansfield, Mont., Democratic Whip; Senator Allen Ellender (D.,La.), head of the Agriculture Committee, who has made several extensive visits to Russia; Senator John Kennedy (D.,Mass.), member of the Labor Rackets Investigating Committee; Senator Hubert Humphrey (D.,Minn.) militant critic of domestic and foreign policies of the Administration.

Also visited by Menshikov are members of the House Foreign Affairs Committee, Commerce Committee, and several other committees.

Two Surprises — With one top House leader, the Soviet Ambassador has had no luck in getting in to see him.

Rep. John McCormack (D., Mass.), has rebuffed to call on him. He has long bitterly assailed Russia's brutal suppressive policies in the satellite countries, and is making it evident he has no desire to talk to the Kremlin envoy.

So when McCormack's secretary was told of Menshikov's desire to visit, the reply was, "The Majority Leader is in outer space."

"Outer space: I do not understand," explained Menshikov. "What is that?"

"The Majority Leader is chairman of the special House Committee on Space," explained the secretary. "He is attending a meeting of that Committee, and cannot be disturbed."

There have been no further inquiries from Menshikov.

On his last Senate sortie, the Soviet Ambassador was accompanied by First Deputy Foreign Minister Vassili Kuzentzov, who was visiting Washington. As they walked past the entrance of the Interior Affairs Committee, their attention was caught by a huge map propped against the wall in the marble corridor.

Made by the Army Engineers, the map showed all the water power projects in Russia, with the principal ones circled in red. Used at a committee hearing, the map was in the hall waiting to be transported back to the Pentagon.

Excitedly, Kuzentzov and Menshikov examined and discussed the map in detail. As they pointed to various projects, an accompanying aide took copious notes.

After they departed, an unnoticed senator who had been watching them remarked, "I'll bet the diplomatic pouch that goes to Moscow tonight will have a voluminous report on this map. And with the Russians being as suspicious as they are, when this report gets to the Kremlin, they'll probably put the Red Airforce on full alert."

Note: Last week, while Menshikov was busily hustling about Capitol Hill, John A. Baker, Jr., Second Secretary of the U.S. embassy in Moscow, was expelled from Russia because of "unseemly conduct" while attending language classes at a university. His "unseemly conduct" consisted of friendly discussions with Russian students.

In the Bag — President Eisenhower is going to get that authority he wants to exchange nuclear secrets and materials with our allies.

However, there will be a big string tied to that change in the Atomic Act.

As drafted by the Joint Atomic Committee, the President would be permitted to conduct such translations, but only with the express approval of Congress. That is, Congress would retain veto power over such agreements.

President Eisenhower has sent word to the committee that he disapproves of this "compromise." But all signs indicate it's the best he will get. The committee's provision may subsequently be changed in either the House or Senate, but that will take a lot of doing over the committee's stand.

Authors of this congressional-veto formula are Senator Clinton Anderson (D., N.M.), vice chairman of the committee, and Rep. Chet Holified (D.,Calif.), head of a subcommittee. Both had been strongly against any foreign exchanges.

But they finally eased their hostility to permit the President to negotiate giving allies nuclear secrets and weapons on condition that all such agreements be submitted to the Joint Committee for full study and consideration. Further, Congress is to have 60 days in which to act on these proposals. They can be rejected by a simple majority vote of the House and Senate.

Good Evening Ladies!

Dog Protests Sack Dress

By Ken Duvall

As a dog lover, it was a pleasure to hear from a Boston lady who has an especially intelligent terrier. She also has one of those new bag-type gowns. Every time she puts it on, her dog howls, runs to a corner and covers his eyes with his paws. It warms my heart to learn that she calls him Ken. "What a critic of women" she says.

I don't doubt her word for a minute, but that doesn't mean I'm inviting other dog lovers to write. I've studied the species for years, its history and development, its ills and its psychology. Dogs are smart, but not as smart as some people think, especially women.

It is easy to mistake normal and instinctive actions by dogs for superior intelligence. A friend of mine is certain his dog knows geometry because no matter what course an uneducated rabbit takes, this beagle, watching for right angle turns, follows the hypotenuse and catches him. This beagle, says my friend, knows that the hyptotenuse of a right triangel is shorter than the sum of its other two sides.

Another friend has an Irish setter that does the marketing; another has a Labrador retriever that loves reporters but bites copy-readers. Numerous acquaintances claim their dogs have favorite television programs. I find this stuff boring, but I try to be tolerant.

Stands On His Head

I never talk about my own dogs, although heaven knows I have plenty of excuse to do so. They are superior animals in every respect and it is difficult to resist the temptation to make a column about them and to avoid exaggeration, a weakness of most dog lovers. I try not to be silly about my dogs and not to hurt the feelings of other people who have inferior ones.

Naturally, I am proud of the fact that Pepper stands on his head on the divan, his hind legs sticking up in the air, to attract attention. I could go on for hours telling about how he brings me my slippers without being told, and how he runs to the phone when it rings, flips off the receiver and barks into the transmitter, forming the words "hello, hello" as plain as day.

I could tell, also, about how he likes to tap on the typewriter and how he once spelled out his name, although I must admit he left out one "p". When riding in my lap in the car, he blows the horn at every intersection and grins from ear to ear to see the pedestrians jump. I know I could teach him to drive in no time, but he's too young to get a license.

Then, of course, there is Cindy, his mate, who can carry a tune when singing with the hi-fi and who likes to look at the Sunday comics. She also sits on a stool in the kitchen when that certain party is cooking, watching every move she makes, inspecting every ingredient. She's a regular Betty Cocker-spaniel.

But, as I say, I try to use restraint in talking about these dogs because I think dog lovers are prone to exaggeration and to make bores of themselves. I prefer to just enjoy the inner satsifaction of knowing that my dogs are far superior intellectually to most others, and keep my mouth shut.

Family Fare

by Bobby Westbrook

Just Between Us — —

—By Bobby Westbrook

Sitting in the office and staring out the window at the rays of the setting sun, waiting for ideas to come, I get engrossed every night in the family horseshoe pitching game across the street.

It looks like fun and makes me homesick in a vague kind of way. I don't really envy anybody else's life, but I do envy moments of almost everybody's. Just isolated moments, without context, suspended somehow in a changeless time.

On a winter morning with farmhouse windows making oblongs of light in the darkness, I envy the farmer at his big breakfast at the kitchen table covered with red-checked oilcloth.

On a sunny day with a good drying wind blowing, I envy the young mother taking down a line of snowy diapers, smelling of sun and clover.

I envy people sitting in quiet groups on front porches while the dark closes in and their faces blur and the voices of the children playing along the street get shriller with the night.

I envy a first-grade teacher with the children clustered around her absorbed in the story she is telling, quilters gathered around the quilt frame in the spare bedroom, little girls clattering down the street in their mother's shoes, and old men sitting in the sun on the benches along Main Street.

But there I stop. I don't want to go on and do the milking, or wash the diapers, or get up from the dark porch to go in to a sinkful of supper dishes. I don't want to unscramble children, take down the quilting frame, go through the process of growing up all over again, nor yet creak when I get up from the park bench. Besides, no one knows they're happy when they really are.

Retail Business Increases In Monroe Area

LEHIGH VALLEY DAIRY—The Lehigh Valley Dairy, located on N. Courtland St., East Stroudsburg, yesterday announced completion of expansion to the plant. The announcement was made by S. Clair Smith, local manager.

Business Column

Lehigh Valley Dairy Lists Expansion

THE EAST Stroudsburg Branch of the Lehigh Valley Dairy has been doubled in size, it was reported yesterday by S. Clair Smith, local manager. The dairy has put into operation a 50-by-100-foot addition to its plant at 321 N. Courtland St.

Work on the steel-and-block structure started in February of 1957. It is estimated that construction of the unit, which includes refrigeration units capable of holding 50,000 quarts of milk, cost more than $100,000.

Smith said the new addition will make possible increased facilities for daily and emergency service. Heretofore, he said, refrigerated trailers, loaded with 14,000 quarts of milk products, would arrive from Allentown and be plugged in to electrical outlets, serving as combination carrier and storage facility.

Loading Facilities

The new building also provides more space for trucks and additional loading facilities.

The entire project, according to Smith, was designed to keep a plentiful supply of products under refrigeration to permit expansion of Lehigh Valley Dairy's service in the area extending from the Stroudsburgs to the New York state line and into the northern New Jersey area.

LUNDY R. WRIGHT has been added to the sales staff of State Equipment Company, Kingston, Pa.

Wright has had 35 years of business experience. He has been active in Kingston civic affairs for many years. In 1945 Wright received the "Outstanding Citizen's Award" from the American Legion.

He has served as a school director in Kingston for 13 years and is a member of the Pennsylvania School Directors Association. He is a member of the Educational Committee of the Wyoming Valley Chamber of Commerce and a past president of the Board of the Wyoming Valley Technical Institute.

Wright remains extremely interested in sports and helped to organize the Kingston Alumni Lettermen's Club, serving as its president for 13 years.

He is well known as a public speaker through his work with civic groups and the Parent-Teachers Assn. and as a sports commentator on local radio and television.

Wright will represent State Equipment Co. in Schuylkill, Carbon and Monroe counties.

MR. T. W. REID, Branch Manager for the Sperry and Hutchinson Co. yesterday announced distribution of the new S&H catalog, the largest single publication printing order in business history. The printing order by S&H, which has been distributing catalogs for 62 years, is 30 million copies.

For the first time in the history of the trading stamp industry, Reid said, magazine-type articles giving useful homemaking ideas are included. Because of this innovation, the 1958 S&H catalog has been named the "Book of Ideas."

First Article

The first article in the stamp company catalog is "Let Imagination be the First Course" by Edith Brazwell Evans. Miss Evans offers important tips to the party giver, ranging from advice on selecting guests to hints on effective, yet simple, table settings.

Next on the list of articles is "Start a New Life with Color" by Arlene Francis. Miss Francis tells how to make color work to the best effect in the home.

George Mardikian, in an article entitled "The Sound of Music", advises that regional dishes are best. Proper toys for children are discussed in an article by Dr. T. R. Van Dellen of the New York News syndicate.

For the man around the house, Roger C. Whitman, syndicated author of "First Aid for the Ailing House", tells how to take care of carpentry tools.

Industrial Development On Upswing In Monroe County

NEW INDUSTRIAL development is on the upswing in the Poconos.

Local industries have received the cooperation of the Pennsylvania Industrial Development Authority.

Lundy R. Wright

The PIDA is an arm of the State Department of Commerce. Its job is to aid in bringing new industry into the Commonwealth.

To do this, the PIDA participates in construction and location costs through cash loans to projects.

In Monroe County the PIDA has made loans totaling $289,000 during the past 18 months. These loans were applied to projects with estimated total cost of $870,000.

Planned Employment

The new industries have a planned employment of 321 persons and estimated annual payroll of $1,112,500 according to Secretary of Commerce William Davlin.

Monroe County ranks eighth in the State in the use of PIDA second mortgage funds for new industry. Leader in the field is Luzerne where $1,731,633 in PIDA loans has been used to create jobs for 2,166 persons.

Others ranking above Monroe in use of the agency are Fayette, Lackawanna, Somerset, Clarion, Northampton and Schuylkill.

The initiative in the use of PIDA facilities rests with the local community. During the past 18 months, the Pocono Mountains Chamber of Commerce has worked closely with the PIDA and other branches of the Commerce Department to bring new industrial development to the area.

Truthful Account?

LONDON (AP)—Radio Moscow quoted Syrian newspapers yesterday as saying several U.S. Transport planes have landed in troubled Lebanon carrying American officers and soldiers in plain clothes. The radio quoted Damascus newspapers, which in turn said they got the story from eye witnesses who returned from Beirut.

Assets Show Increases In Associations

A NATIONWIDE increase in assets of savings and loan associations is reflected in a similar jump by the East Stroudsburg Savings, Building and Loan Assn.

The United States Savings and Loan League said yesterday that assets of the nation's 6,000 associations have passed the 50 billion dollar mark.

John N. Gish, treasurer of the local institution, said last night his firm's assets have increased consistently at the rate of about half a million dollars a year.

This Month

By the end of this month, assets of the local association are expected to be seven and one quarter million dollars.

"We've had years during which we've had bigger gains," Gish said, "but in view of economic conditions, we're satisfied."

On the national scene, Joseph Holzka, league president, said the 50 billion mark was passed somewhere at the end of the second week of May.

He said the new figure compares with assets of $11,700,000,000 at the end of 1947 and represents a gain of 325 per cent in assets in the last 10 years.

Bangor High Downs Pen Argyl Nine In Playoff

OFF THE RECORD

By Bob Clark
Sports Editor

PLENTY OF BASEBALL is in store for the Pocono Mountain Baseball and Blue Mountain Baseball Leagues.

Sunday's rainout of two tilts in the PML set up two more doubleheaders for nines when they come together later in the season.

The postponements caused a little more trouble for Blue Mountain teams as a good part of their schedule now features weekday twilight contests. Officials of the BML must reschedule games either as part of a doubleheader later in the year or put in the games on Fridays of each week to keep the slate on an even keel.

Whatever the moguls come up with, it will play havoc on pitching staffs, especially to those who have been relying on "one-man" hurling corps to carry them, thus far.

Eiler is head of a vacation spot at the Saylorsburg-situated site.

Schautz All-Star softball team is looking for games with area teams on a home-home basis. Schautz, which plays under the lights at Scranton, is anxious to arrange a doubleheader on any of the following dates:

June 7, June 14 and June 21.

If any area teams are interested they are urged to contact Connie Mulherin, 815 Delaware St., Scranton 9, Pa., or by phoning Diamond 7-3941.

Incidentally, area baseball fans will be able to get their fill of amateur baseball this weekend.

Games are carded in the Blue Mountain League and the Pocono Mountain League Memorial Day (Friday) as well as their regularly scheduled Sunday contests (June 1).

Arch Dally, promoter of the Pocono Mountain $20,000 Bowling Tournament extravaganza, points out that scoring is still low in his Barrett Bowling Center phase of the "Pennsylvania Big Four" pin classic.

On the handicap side, an 854 is high, while on the scratch or actual competition, 801 is tops, thus far.

Dally says, "the first prize is $4,000 in each division is wide open to any bowler who is able to get a hot night."

The expert or scratch kegler only has to post a 201 average for four games to beat Tom Hennessey's 801, while the handicap (the one who gets extra pins because of a lower average) needs only 213 per game, including his regular season norm, to beat the leader in this group, Donald Casey who has an 854 total.

Art Wall continues to make money even though he is not finishing on top in the various opens along the pro play-for-pay trail.

In Sunday's Kansas City Golf Open, Wall, the Pocono Manor's traveling representative, had a card of 278 after rounds of 71, 68, 70 and 69 to pick up $916.27.

Art tied with two others to share sixth place money.

Danny Pace, the Delaware Water Gap mixologist who forsook the "Big City" for another year in the mountains, is having a tough time getting his golf game back in shape.

Pace, one of Glen Brook's daily links fanatics, has found that practice does make perfect. In the early goings on the fairways, Dan who missed the pre-season duels with Mo Abeloff, Lloyd Staples and Jim Dave, is talking to himself over his poor showing.

However, Dan Pace has one consolation—his favorite baseball team, the Yankees, are running away in the American League again or yet.

Dan is willing to by-pass golf talk, but will change the topic to his favorite conversation—the Yanks.

Slaters Bust Tie In 10th; Meet Parkland For Final

PEN ARGYL—Bangor High moved a notch closer in its reach for the Lehigh-Northampton Interscholastic League championship title yesterday by defeating the Pen Argyl nine in an extra-inning, closely contested duel here.

Clinching the win for the Bangor tribe was a 10th inning double by first baseman Corey which drove in the tie-breaking run. The tie was logged in the top of the fifth when Bangor pushed one across the plate.

In the 10th, second baseman Menhennitt started the win by driving out a single. Bangor catcher Butz struck out, and then came Corey's double.

With the winning run across, the Bangor threat ended as leftfielder J. LaBar hit into a double play. Pen Argyl's hopes were swiftly downed in the following sequence:

Catino, the left-fielder and first man up, was nailed at first in an unassisted play. The center fielder, Caparaso, flied out to center, and second baseman Altemose struck out.

Today, Bangor faces Parkland in the final playoff for the league title. Parkland, which tied Bangor and Pen Argyl for the first place slot, drew a bye in the initial playoffs. The game will be played at Coplay at 4 p.m.

All-Star Tilt For Leagues Planned

BATH — Gene Hartzell, president of the Blue Mountain Baseball League, was authorized to make arrangements with the Pocono Mountain Baseball League for a possible All-Star contest between the two leagues sometime during the month of July.

This information was released last night at a regular meeting of the league held at the Bath Firehall with Hartzell in charge.

All teams were represented at the session and Hartzell instructed all teams that they are to present to the umpire in chief at all games a list of the home ground rules.

The Stroudsburg entry in the league paid a fine for failing to be represented at previous session and plans were made to hold the next regular meeting at the North End Wanders Club this meeting ill be held on Monday, June 30, at the regular time.

Stroudsburg and Danielsville will play tonight at Danielsville at 6 p.m. in a postponed contest.

Dickson Eases Athletics Over Orioles, 5-4 In 10

KANSAS CITY (AP)—Murry Dickson, who took over in the fourth inning four runs behind, pitched four-hit ball the rest of the way and clouted a lead-off homer in the 10th inning to win his own game yesterday as the Kansas City Athletics defeated the Baltimore Orioles 5-4.

Dickson, 41, came on in relief of starter Ralph Terry after Terry tossed a home-run ball, on a 1-1 pitch, to Jim Busby, with the bases loaded.

In the Kansas City half of the fourth Bill Martyn hit a homer with Mike Baxes on base by virtue of a single. The Athletics got another run in the fourth on a double by Hector Lopez, an error and a force-out. Then Harry Chiti led off the fifth for the A's with a round-tripper over the left field fence.

That ended the scoring until Dickson's blast in the 10th. It was only the second time at bat this year for the veteran reliefer and his third major league homer.

HERE is a pleasant little game that will give you a message every day. It is a numerical puzzle designed to spell out your fortune. Count the letters in your first name. If the number of letters is 6 or more, subtract 4. If the number is less than 6, add 2. The result is your key number. Start at the upper left-hand corner of the rectangle and check every one of your key numbers, left to right. Then read the message the letters under the checked figures give you.

CEMETERY PLOTS

It's pleasant now, but only weeks ago it was very different. Everyone will require a Cemetery plot. Some prudently select in advance in good season. Others meet the situation when the weather is miserable. The right way is now—in advance. Look around, but include Laurelwood and investigate its advantages. Every plot under adequate Endowed Care. Easy installment terms. Booklet.

MONROE COUNTY Mental Health Assn. will receive its official charter tomorrow night.

The charter will be presented by Max Silverstein, executive director of Pennsylvania Mental Health.

Mrs. Arthur Henning, president of the MCMHA, will be in charge of the meeting. It will be held at 8 p. m. in the Regina Suite at the Penn-Stroud Hotel.

Presentation of the charter will mean that the local unit is officially affiliated with the PMH and the National Association for Mental Health.

New Organization

Thr MCMHA is a relatively new organization. Formed last year, the mental health group has become one of Monroe County's most active.

A major portion of its work this past year has been directed toward completion of a survey of mental health needs in the county. The survey was used to contact civic leaders and professional spokesmen in all areas within the community.

All directors of the Association and any other persons interested in mental health work are urged to attend Wednesday night's meeting, Mrs. Henning said.

Hearings Open On Farm Agenda

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate hearings on a long-term farm program opened yesterday with criticism of government price supports.

The criticism came from Herschel D. Newsom, master of the National Grange. He said price supports amount to price-fixing which cannot, in the long run, serve agriculture or the nation well.

Concept

Newsom, appearing before the Senate Agriculture Committee, recommended that Congress adopt the Grange's domestic parity concept.

He said this calls for a wheat producer, for example, to get 100 per cent of parity for that part of his crop allocated to domestic food. The producer would be assured of 100 per cent by being given a certificate representing the differences between the market price and full parity.

Parity is a standard calculated to give the farmer a fair price in relation to the costs of things he must buy.

Sarnoff Foresees Artificial Organs

WASHINGTON (AP) — Brig. Gen. David Sarnoff yesterday envisioned the possibility that compact electronic devices may be developed some day to replace human body organs that have become defective through injury or age.

"Artificial kidneys, lungs and even hearts may then become as familiar as artificial teeth or hearing aids," said Sarnoff, who is chairman of the board of Radio Corporation of America.

Rails Advance In Mixed Stock Market

NEW YORK (AP) — Rails advanced on hopes that their excise taxes would be repealed but the stock market as a whole was mixed yesterday.

Trading was fairly active. Volume totaled 2,500,000 shares compared with 2,570,000 on Friday.

Steels were early pacemakers as they rose on brighter prospects for output and demand. The price of steel scrap was boosted. Steel production was upped for the fourth straight week.

Rails joined them in leadership after the Senate Commerce Committee approved a program to help this ailing industry, recommending repeal of the 3 per cent tax on freight transportation and the 10 per cent tax on passengers. Airlines also got a slight shot in the arm in hopes that Congress would give them similar relief.

For a while it looked like a fairly good market rise. Late profit taking marred the advance.

Oils Falter

Oils, hesitant over the international crisis centering on France, faltered. Aircrafts declined. Coppers backed away from early gains on news of good demand at the higher custom smelter prices.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks closed unchanged at $169.60 with the industrials down 10 cents, the rails up 90 cents and the utilities down 30 cents.

Of 1,185 issues traded, 483 advanced and 410 declined. New highs for the year totaled 122 and new lows 5.

Six of the 15 most active stocks rose and six fell, with three unchanged.

American Stock Exchange prices were mixed on volume of 830,000 shares compared with 870,000 on Friday.

Painting Highway Lines To Be Finished Thursday

WORK OF REPAINTING Monroe County highways and traffic control signs is expected to be completed by Thursday, according to Joseph C. Ciampi, Monroe County superintendent for the State Highways Department.

Ciampi said that this county is one of three in the state in which a spraying campaign against weeds, poison ivy and dandelions is being conducted. The others are Pike and Wayne.

Total Mileage

Ciampi said sprayers will cover 266 miles of highway in the county. Painting will cover 280 miles.

Before the campaign is over, the county highway crews will have used 3,500 gallons of white paint and 19,000 pounds of white reflector beads.

Shamokin Man Gets 3-10 Years

PITTSBURGH (AP)—Charles F. Rozowski, 29, of Shamokin, was sentenced to three-to-10 years in Western Penitentary yesterday after pleading guilty to 54 burglary charges. Rozowski was arrested April 26 in a Pittsburgh building by a guard who became suspicious.

Father Killed In Accident

GREEN LANE, Pa. (AP)—A car struck a culvert and overturned yesterday on Route 29 near this Montgomery County community. Killed was 35-year-old Alfred Miller of Pennsburg, father of three small children.

Police said he apparently lost control of his car when he fell asleep at the wheel.

Boatman Rescued

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—A young Coast Guardsman swam 40 yards yesterday through the choppy Delaware River and rescued a man whose motorboat upset in the channel off Wissinoming Yacht Club. The boatman had lost consciousness.

Poconos Expect Record Season This Summer

RECESSION or no recession, the Pocono Mountains are looking forward to the best tourist season ever this Summer.

That's the word from the Pocono Mountains Vacation Bureau, borne out by a report recently published by the Federal Reserve Bank of Philadelphia.

The vacation bureau reports that both reservations and inquiries are ahead of last year—when records in both categories were established.

On top of this, a $2,000,000 improvement program among area resorts is being speeded in preparation for the season. This on top of more than $6,000,000 spent in the past three years.

Face-lifting includes new facades, porte-cocheres, luxuriated lodging and dining accommodations and additional recreational facilities.

While they always knew the resort industry was the life blood of the country, area residents had their eyes opened by a survey conducted by the federal reserve bank.

It showed that the Poconos are the largest and most popular of the mountain resorts of the district the bank serves and that Monroe and Pike counties combined produced a volume of almost $40,000,000 in vacation spending in 1956, the year for which the survey reported.

Dr. Evan B. Alderfer, economic advisor for the bank, in a talk opening the ninth annual hotel and restaurant show here, pointed out that the $40 million figure represented only initial spending that most of the money is spent at least several times in the area.

The Poconos' popularity is easy to understand, according to veteran observers. It is based on the area's proximity to the large metropolitan areas of the East.

The result is a considerable saving on transportation and other extra-curricular costs of vacationing. More and better facilities are available for less.

In view of the bank's findings that older places without modern facilities are not doing too well, while the modern establishments offering a variety of services and attractions are prospering, the improvement program being conduced by the area resort operators becomes even more important.

And Alderfer, in his talk, urged resort operators to pay more attention to the 43 cents out of each dollar which the vacationer puts out for lodging, to say nothing of the 14 cents in each dollar which goes for food.

Many resorts are already booked nearly to capacity for the season. Others are accepting new reservations daily.

The area's reputation as the ideal place to spend a honeymoon is increasing and numerous resorts are accepting reservations from honeymooners only.

A healthy air of optimism is evident at meetings of resort operators. And most are going all out to keep things that way.

Bowling On Lawn At Buck Hill

THE UNITED States doubles tournament of the American Lawn Bowling Assn. will be held at the Inn at Buck Hill Falls from Friday, Sept. 12, to Tuesday, Sept. 16.

Entries will include champions from the central, eastern, northwest, southwest and southeast divisions of the United States.

The area tournament will follow the U. S. singles championship to be held at Spalding Inn in the White Mountains of New Hampshire from Sept. 5 through Sept. 7.

Different Teams

Lawn bowling can be played by as many as eight men (four on a team, called a rink) or as few as two, such as a singles match.

The playing area, a closely cropped lawn or green, measures 120 feet by 120 feet.

After a small white ball, known as the jack, is rolled a distance of 75 feet, the bowlers roll a weighted ball or bowl as close to the white ball as possible.

After all competitors have bowled, points are determined by the nearness of the bowls to the jack.

Many lawn bowlers start at the age of 15 and frequently continue until they are over 80 years of age.

Following the national bowling championships at Buck Hill Falls, an open doubles tournament will be held.

TOURNEY SITE—The green at Buck Hill Falls Inn will be the scene of the national doubles tournament of the American Lawn Bowling Assn. from Friday, Sept. 12, to Tuesday, Sept. 16. An open doubles tournament will follow.

Thruway Construction To Begin In Spring

First Section To Begin In Water Gap

CONSTRUCTION on the first two and one-half miles of the Stroudsburg Thruway is expected to start late this month or early in June, according to the U. S. Public Roads Administration.

Bids on the first phase of the project were received May 9 by the State Highways Department.

Cost of the initial project is estimated at $4,000,000 to $5,000,000, while cost of the entire Thruway is estimated at $10,500,000.

The first section will start at the Delaware River Bridge north of Delaware Water Gap and end at the Stroudsburg-East Stroudsburg line.

For visitors to the area, the highway when it is completed, should serve a double purpose.

It will permit more rapid travel on U. S. Route 611 and it will facilitate traffic through both Stroudsburg and East Stroudsburg.

Both Boroughs

Officials of both boroughs, in supporting the highway department's plan for the Thruway, pointed out that traffic is now jamming the streets of both boroughs and that the situation is bound to get worse unless some positive action is taken.

A public hearing was held in Monroe County Courthouse last Jan. 14 at which 23 individuals testified in favor of the state's Plan A for the Thruway. Only four voiced opposition to it.

The Thruway, designed to tie in with the eastern terminus of the Keystone Shortway, was recommended by Gannett, Fleming, Corrdry and Carpenter, consulting engineers hired by the state. The Shortway will in turn merge with the Penn-Can Expressway near Crescent Lake.

The location, which the engineers described as the best available, is arranged so that it will serve traffic not only on Route 611 but also U. S. Route 209.

It will be built as part of the federal interstate system, which means that the federal government will pick up the tab for 90 per cent of the cost of construction. The state will pay the remaining 10 per cent.

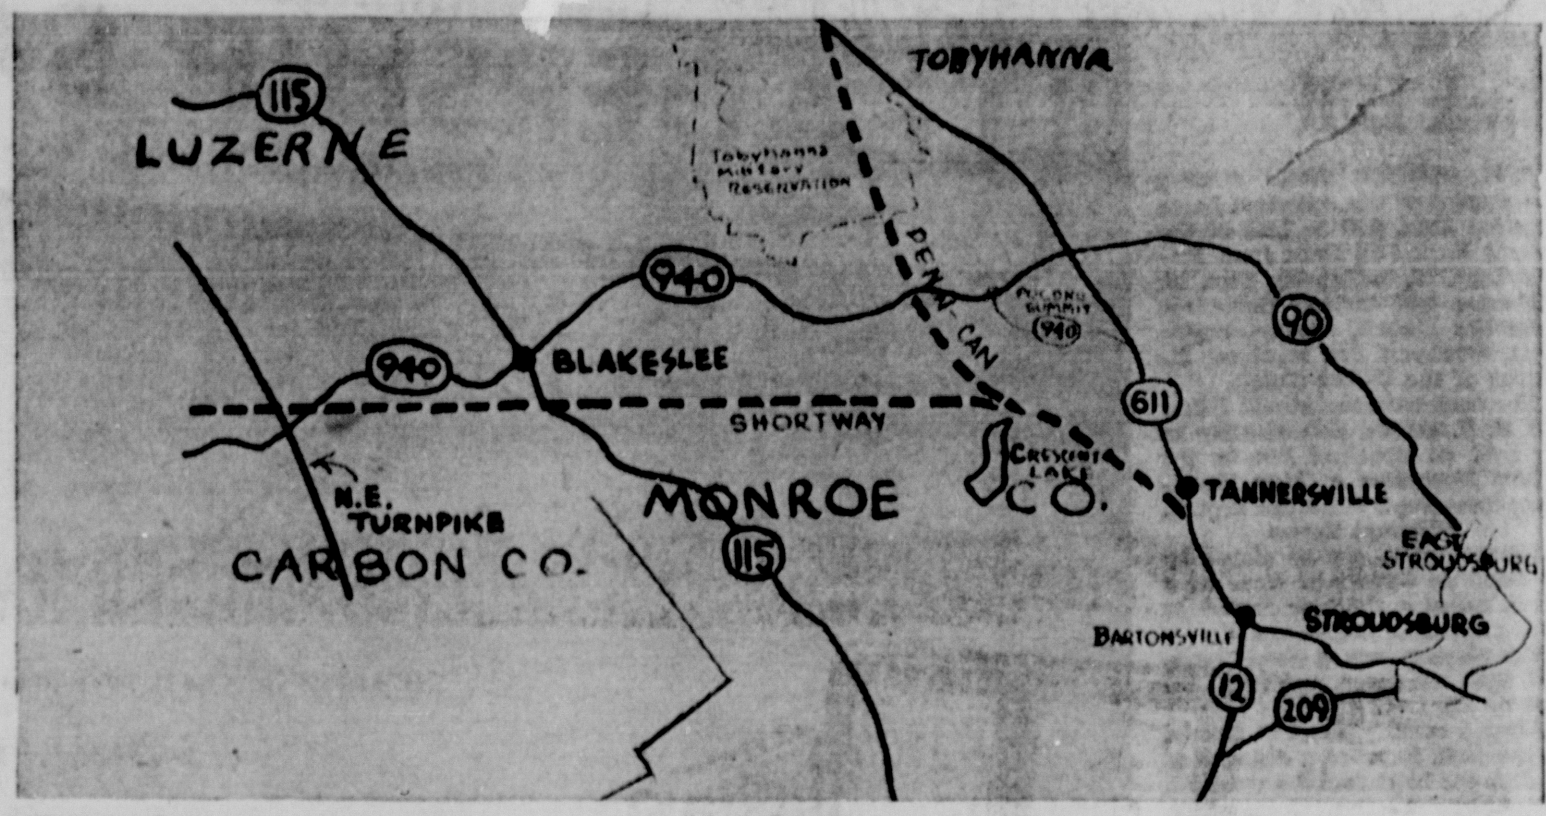
Eight interchanges to provide access to the boroughs affected by the highway and other existing facilities will be built. Two bridges will also be constructed.

Relieving Congestion

While it is designed primarily to improve through traffic from the business districts of Stroudsburg and East Stroudsburg, thus relieving congestion, its proximity to shopping centers of both boroughs will enable vacationers as well as permanent residents to reach business districts easily.

The highway will be constructed of 12-foot lanes of 10-inch reinforced concrete on each side of a 26-foot median. Four-foot divisors will separate the lanes.

The highway's design is based on an estimated average daily traffic in 1974 of 10,300 to 12,800 cars through East Stroudsburg and Stroudsburg and 10,000 cars north of Stroudsburg.



MONROE COUNTY will have an important role in federal interstate highway network of the future. It will be the eastern terminus of the Keystone Shortway, four-lane super-freeway extending 291 miles between Stroudsburg and Sharon. Also serving Poconos will be Penn-Can Expressway, running between Canada and Philadelphia. Shortway and Penn-Can will merge between Crescent Lake and Stroudsburg (Staff Drawing by Reinhart)

Flood Protection Assured

FLOOD protection for the Stroudsburgs is now virtually assured.

A $2,800,000 project is now undergoing final planning for engineers employed by the State Department of Forests and Waters.

The study is expected to reach completion sometime within the next five months. Construtcion on the job could not begin, therefore, until Spring of next year.

Work on a preliminary outline for the proposed control project for the two boroughs was begun by the State department shortly after the 1955 flood in this area.

Since presentation of the preliminary outlines to local officials both Borough Councils and County Commissions have agreed to act as sponsors of the project when it is undertaken.

A control study for the Tannersville region is now being undertaken.

Art Exhibits Plentiful In Poconos As Three Groups Present Many Paintings

AMONG THE liveliest of the arts is the art of painting. And, in the Pocono Mountains, at least, it is the liveliest.

This area boasts no less than three major art "groups." It has year-round shows devoted to the work of various painters from this area and those from other regions.

Primary attraction for visitors during the Summer has always been the outdoor art show sponsored by Pocono Mountains Art Group. This is a non-profit organization made up of both amateurs and professionals.

Each Summer during June and August, the group sponsors "clothesline exhibits" in Stroudsburg's N. Seventh St. and Court House Square. During recent years the show has attracted thousands of visitors from nearby counties and states as well as the local community.

The Buck Hill Art Assn. plans and displays shows each year. These shows includes the work of dozens of local and visiting artists and have long been considered highlights of the year.

Newest addition to the artistic ranks locally is the Gallery (formerly known as The Gallery Art Club). Its shows are hung on the second floor of the YMCA in Stroudsburg in the banquet room.

At present The Gallery is showing a group of paintings by Gloria Shafer Randolph and George B. Johnson through June 1. On June 2, the show will be devoted to "Well Designed Objects From the Stores of the Stroudsburgs."

Other Gallery exhibits this Summer will include showings of the paintings of Frances Limberg Stearns, a group sculpture show, an exhibit of paintings from Indiana University and an invitational jury show.

Sterling Inn Right Size For Homelike Atmosphere

STERLING INN, a small charming country inn located in one of the most beautiful parts of the Poconos, invites you to spend your vacation and holidays.

Small enough to achieve a homelike atmosphere and a degree of selectivity in its guest list; large enough to satisfy the vacation requirements of the substantial folks who have been returning year after year are its attributes.

The Sterling has been owned and operated by the same family management for approximately 25 years.

There are many recreational facilities available both on the premises and nearby.

Well-Populated

STROUDSBURG, East Stroudsburg and adjacent built-up areas of Stroud Township comprise a compact community of more than 18,000 persons.

World Famous Gap

DELAWARE Water Gap, commonly known as the gate-way to the Poconos, is also often referred to as the eighth natural scenic wonder of the world.

Winona Falls Named For Indian Maid

AN INDIAN Chief, dwelling in the forest, had a beatuiful daughter, named Winona, who loved a warrior of a tribe at war with that of her father.

One bitter morning in the icy grip of Winter, she left her wigwam and started toward the home of her sweetheart to warn him of an impending attack. He had already taken the warpath against her father.

Lost In Snow

Winona became lost and wandered alone in the trackless forest.

Her father and her sweetheart forgot their hostilities in their anxiety for her safety and side by side roamed the wilds searching for her.

Near a large water falls, guided by footprints of blood in the snow, they found her wrapped in the slumber of death.

So the falls became "Winona Falls" in lasting memory of the tragic sacrifice of this Indian maid, Winona.

Summer Theaters Among Top Attractions In Pocono Area

SUMMER THEATRE is one of the major cultural activities in the Pocono Mountains during the vacation months.

For the visitor who is in search of "star" attractions, there is the professionally - directed Pocono Playhouse at Mountainhome.

For those who enjoy the atmosphere and discovery of new talent there are other Summer playhouses.

At Pocono Playhouse, Mrs. Rowena Stevens has still not made final decisions on her attractions for the season. But Mrs. Stevens is negotiating for the services of such "names" as Joan Blondell, Jules Munshin, Menasha Skulnik, Basil Rathbone, Betty Fields, Ann Harding, Gig Young, Elizabeth Montgomery, Hermione Gingold and others.

Nothing final, Mrs. Stevens said last week, but any or all of the above are "possibilities" for the season.

Among the other local Summer theatres is Captain Harold Auten's Bushkill Playhouse at Bushkill, in the Eastern Poconos.

Operating on a non-star policy, the Bushkill theatre offers quality plays with unknowns and an occasional top professional, such as James Mitchell and Art Smith.

New to the area this year will be a playhouse at Ross Common Manor near Saylorsburg on Route 115. Details concerning its season are not yet available, but the fact that it will be in operation has been announced.

Historical Museum

THE MONROE County Historical Museum, located in the Stroud Community House at Ninth and Main Sts. in Stroudsburg, can be visited by appointment with the curator, Mrs. Horace G. Walters. It has a fine collection of Indian arrowheads.

Near Record For Lions Convention

A NEAR record high registration for a Pennsylvania State Lions Club convention at Tamiment-In-The-Poconos during the early part of June has been received, host clubs' officials report.

Thus far, nearly 2,000 Lions Club members throughout the state have registered for the forthcoming three-day long convention. A Lions Club registration record of 2,400 was set at a Pittsburgh convention.

The Lions Club of the Stroudsburgs—the host group—described this year's convention setting in the following manner:

"Take a wilderness mountaintop in the rugged heart of Pennsylvania's Poconos. Carve a road up the side of it through 2,200 acres of rock, oak and pine. At this place, on this mountain, create a haven of beauty and stimulating entertainment. This is Tamiment-In-The-Poconos."

Annual Production

The annual convention, the 35th, will be held June 8, 9, and 10. Assisting the Stroudsburgs club will be other Lions Clubs in Zone A, Region Two.

Available to the convention gathering will be the resort's outdoor and indoor facilities for sports—swimming — golf — movie theatre. Luxurious accommodations and wonderful meals round out the program.

Planned are special programs to keep both the ladies and Lion guests busy as well as interested throughout their stay.

Tamiment is located approximately 18 miles above Stroudsburg, just beyond the community of Bushkill.

Delaware, Lackawanna and Western Railroad service and Greyhound and Martz busses all pass through Stroudsburg which is the change point.

The last 18 miles of transportation will be provided.

Teenagers Get In Nine Work

TEEN-AGE baseball, the carry through of the high school season is demonstrated with the Monroe County Babe Ruth and a Stroud Juniors nine in the Bi-State League.

The County BR has rosters dotted with players from practically every school in the area, while the Bi-State Strouds are made up of East Stroudsburg and Stroudsburg High personnel.

Feature Canines

MANY of the top dog shows in the United States draw their entries from the Poconos. Kennels featuring virtually every major breed of dog can be found in the Pocono Mountains.

Industrial Sites Present In Locality

HIDDEN neatly away in the Stroudsburgs are a few hundred acres of the choicest industrial sites on the Eastern seaboard.

They're in an area built on a tradition of fun, vacations and resorts, and there's a tendency for the industrial potential to be overlooked.

Descriptions of the available tracts sound like an ad man's pie-in-the-sky. There's level land, transportation, power, water, labor supply, nearness to some of the biggest markets on earth, closeness to natural resources.

Those aren't the only items on an industrial check-list. There are also a handful of intangibles: a livable community; temperate climate; plenty of housing for workers; and sports like hunting, hiking, fishing, skiing, skating, which draw vacationers by the millions.

Some heavy industries have already "discovered" the Stroudsburgs and moved in. Some of the "discoveries" were made by industrialists who at first were vacationers in the Poconos themselves.

Programs For Area Farms Successful

A BIG REASON why the economy of the Poconos continues the year around is the successful farm program carried on throughout this vacation area.

There is no limit to the products turned out by the 884 farms throughout Monroe County. The present total is certain to increase in future years with expansion plans now being conducted in order to make use of modern equipment.

Large dairy herds have become the specialty in this sector with large amounts of milk and eggs sold through nearby large cooperative markets. Wool has also ranked high on the market.

Other Products

Some of the other products of the Poconos are cream, butter, cheese, carrots, celery, cucumbers, pears, cherries, plums, various types of potatoes, corn, spinach, wheat, green peas, tomatoes, raspberries, oats, barley, grapes, apricots, prunes, rye and buckwheat.

Also peaches, apples, muskmelons, cantaloupes, cabbage, beets, lima beans, green beans, asparagus, clover, alfalfa, hay crops and soybeans. Meat, lard, hides and other products are sold from butchered animals.

Those animals sold alive or slaughtered are turkeys, sheep, mules, horses, chickens, cattle, and hogs.

A SUMMER MOUNTAIN PARADISE FOR GOLFERS . . .

Horseback Riding Popular Recreation

"HOLD YOUR HORSES!" will be a familiar cry throughout the area this Summer.

For many years, horseback riding has been a major recreational activity throughout the resort locale. All of the major hotels in the Poconos either have riding facilities or have access—"working agreements"—with the various riding academies.

However, the sport has by no means been limited to the resort-goers. Within recent months, the Horseback Riding Club has been formed, organized, and brought into active existence.

The club meets in Stroudsburg with members ranging as far across the state-line as Delaware, N. J. Recently, they began one of their Sunday canters at Eagle-nest Park in Jersey—it fronts on Route 46—and spent much of the afternoon trotting in the freedom of one of the area's most beautiful hoss-trails. Every week-end the group chooses a different path for their delights.

Not Unique

This group is not unique. Many new clubs whose keen interest in the equines has caused them to become "hossy" over the weekends are springing into the saddle throughout the Pocono area. The trails will be crowded with enthusiastic horsemen and women astride spirited nags.

Although it has been popular for quite a while, there has been a recent renaissance of this ancient pastime. Many new stables have begun to dot the resort map, offering a good range of horses—and instruction for the novice equestrian—for the saddle-prone athlete.

Forests Improved By Conservation

DURING THE past dozen years conservation measures have enabled the forests near the Stroudsburgs to make a decided improvement. Lumbering was the largest industry in the nineteenth century.

For 30 or 40 years, improved transportation and needs of the nearby anthracite industry resulted in cutting of much young timber.

BICYCLES FOR TWO—Neither bicycle is built for two, but Pocono Gardens Lodge is. Taking care of honeymooners has long been a specialty of the resort.

Pocono Mountains Popular For Conventions Of All Types, Sizes Four Seasons In Year

POCONO Mountains resort facilities will cater to over 45,000 individuals who have discovered there's no place like this region for best results in convention or conference deliberations.

Everything they need is here.

Religious groups, state and national service club organizations; veterans groups, state and national; medical groups, business organizations, trade groups, fraternal orders, banking and savings and loans associations, are added to the tours—Cook's Tour and others, to compile an impressive list.

State conventions of Lions and Exchange Club have been held here. The Lions are holding their state convention here again next month. Huge district meetings of Rotary from several Eastern areas came to the Poconos.

Pennsylvania Lutheran Ministerium meets annually in the Poconos.

United States Chamber of Commerce—involving the nation's major business interests—have their importance conferences in the tremendous resort facilities of the Poconos.

Even the Pennsylvania Hotel's Assn. and its resort membership come to the Poconos where 80 per cent of the resorts of the state—and consequently 80 per cent of the convention and resort facilities—are located.

Long experience, plenty of conference room and exceptional access by the nation's finest roads combine to provide deft handling of the convention or conference groups ranging from 10 to thousands.

Labor unions, including the Pennsylvania-Delaware Typographical Union have found everything they want and need for their annual meetings.

The convention groups vary in tastes. They may want to stay strictly on the conference routine, broken only by fine food, good wine, exceptional scenery, great golfing, tennis, fishing and hunting facilities, or they may want a tour or two away from their hotel.

They may want to look over the shopping centers and meet the Pocono Mountains folk. If they do, they find their role as "guest" never ends anywhere in the Poconos. People are friendly, helpful and cheerful in their roles as "hosts" to every type of Pocono Mountains visitor.

International Business Machine, Pennsylvania Bakers, National Safety Council, Pennsylvania Electric Assn., Pennsylvania Savings and Loan League, National Metal Trades, American Society of Travel Agents—and they should know—are only a fraction of the huge conference groups which have selected the Poconos for conventions—because they can be sure their every need is already anticipated.

Pocono Gardens Host Honeymooners

HONEYMOONING is a word synonymous with America's most unique honeymoon estate, Pocono Gardens Lodge.

Nestled in gorgeous Paradise Valley in the Poconos, the lodge offers the honeymooners wonderous food and accommodations beyond all dreams.

Fabulous Capri chalets feature spacious living rooms and bed rooms with television and radio and the most talked about Roman baths with beautiful sunken tubs, sun lamps and dual sinks.

Olympic Pool

In the competent hands of Bernie Whitman, social director, is a world of exciting activities and amazing sights to see. Dancing in the Carnival Room, game nights, horse racing and many other activities highlight an unforgettable honeymoon.

The honeymooners will be associated with 38 other couples throughout their stay, honeymooners just like themselves. There are no strangers at Pocono Gardens Lodge. Its friendly atmosphere creates friendships that will last a lifetime.

LOCAL Summer recreation programs have been developed by the Boroughts of Stroudsburg and East Stroudsburg for their residents.

Road Improvements Continue In Poconos

A COMPREHENSIVE program of repairs and construction of Monroe County highways—estimated cost is $533,437 this year—will make the area an even more attractive vacationland in future years.

Already underway are work on the relocation of Route 90 between Cherry Valley and Bangor and widening and straightening of Route 940 from Blakeslee to Pocono Pines.

Bids have been asked for May 29 by the State Dept. of Highways on the Analomink bridge spanning Brodheads Creek and the Delaware, Lackawanna and Western Railroad's tracks.

Referred to the Harrisburg office of the highway department are plans for a bridge spanning the Brodheads from Stroudsburg's Main St. to East Stroudsburg's Washington St. and relocation of Route 611 from Wind Gap to Tannersville.

T. K. Rothermund, district engineer for the highway department, said on April 22 at a meeting here that he expected the state to advertise for bids "any day now" on the two bridges and the first phase —Wind Gap to Saylorsburg—of the Route 611 project

Van D. Yetter, county Democratic Party chairman and former state representative, who gave the $533,437 figure, after consulation with highway department officials in April, listed these county projects:

Resurfacing—Route 512; 2.35 miles, Northampton County line to Saylorsburg, $50,000; Route 940—2.67 miles, from Swiftwater to Pocono Summit, $52,375; Route 45060—.59 miles at a cost of $5,440 on what is known as Stokes Ave.; Route 45050 (Bridge St.)—.32 mile at a cost of $3,100; Route 45084 (King St.)—.93 mile in East Stroudsburg, $12,400; Route 390 (Skytop Road)—1.05 miles in Canadensis, $9,550; Route 45057 (Chipperfield Drive)—1.4 miles at a cost of $14,662; Route 45058 (Franklin Hill)—1.22 miles at a cost of $13,000.

Construction and reconstruction jobs:

Route 45010 (Cherry Valley Road at Delaware Water Gap)—.48 mile at a cost of $28,000; Route 45018 (Analomink hazard elimination, removal of an "S" curve in the roadway)—.38 mile at a cost of $42,000; Route 45092 (Minisink Hills)—.31 mile at a cost of $12,000.

Widening roads now in existence:

Route 45017 (Marshalls Creek—Camp William Penn Road)—2 miles at $24,000 in which the road will be widened from 14 feet to 18 feet; Route 45044 (Bangor Hollow)—1.86 miles at $23,000, from 14 to 18 feet; Route 560 (Kresgeville to Little Washington)—1.25 miles at $17,000, widened from 14 to 18 feet; Route 45003 (Gilbert to Effort)—1.78 miles at $18,000 for widening from 14 to 18 feet.

Improvement in type of road:

Transportation Convenient In Poconos

RAILROAD and bus service into the Pocono Mountains vacationland offers out-of-town visitors and tourists frequently scheduled trips to points at or near the resort of their choice.

The Delaware, Lackawanna and Western Railroad provides the traveler frequent service between New York City and Buffalo. Persons traveling to Skytop, Canadensis, Buck Hill Falls and Mountainhome, will find trains stopping at Cresco.

The railroad stops at East Stroudsburg for Stroudsburg and Delaware Water Gap area resorts. It also stops at Mount Pocono, Pocono Summit and Tobyhanna.

Connecting Lines

Connecting lines from the South includes the Pennsylvania Railroad which makes connections with the Lackawanna at Newark, N. J., via convenient taxi service between terminals.

From points west, such as Chicago, Detroit and Cleveland, the Nickle Plate Railroad makes connections with the Lackawanna at Buffalo.

The area is also served by Greyhound and Martz Bus Lines. The Pocono area is along the main routes from New York and Philadelphia.

Additional terminal points where direct connections can be made include Easton, Scranton, Wilkes-Barre, Binghamton, Buffalo, Bethlehem, Cleveland and Syracuse.

Assessment Program In Formation

A PROGRAM which will bring about fair assessment of real estate in Monroe County is now nearing completion.

County Commissioners employed J. L. Jacobs Co., Chicago, this past year to complete the tax equalization program for the county.

Once Jacobs Co. has finished its appraisal and tax mapping of properties in the area, the county will take over and put into effect its overall equalized tax system.

With this action, Monroe County will have arrived at a point where local taxpayers will be assured that they are paying no more than their proportionate share of the tax burden.

Mandatory

The tax equalization system is mandatory under State law. Legislation passed more than five years ago requires all Counties to complete and put into effect an assessment system which is based on fair and equal sharing of tax costs based on real property.

At Commessioners' request the Jacobs Co. has agreed to speed up final work on Price Township so that the county will be able to set its assessment percentage to market value ration. Price has been and continues to be Monroe's lowest-assessed district.

Work is also being speeded on Ross Township and one district in East Stroudsburg, so that a comparative study may be made.

Completion of the system will give Monroe County a modern, equalized assessment system for the first time in its history.

FUN IN THE SUN—Guests at the Pinehurst in Canadensis enjoy an afternoon at the deluxe pool. Shuffleboard, a practice putting green and a new playground for children are among other outdoor facilities available for guests.

Shawnee Offers Full Slate Of Golf, Swimming Events

SHAWNEE - ON-DELAWARE —With one championship golf tournament already completed, a championship swimming meet and two more championship golf tournaments are featured events for the 1958 season at Fred Waring's Shawnee Inn.

After a gay, blazing, social opening weekend, May 1-4, the annual "Dogwood" Invitation Golf Tournament, with a field of 150 top golfers from all parts of the country competing, was held May 8-12.

The 10th annual invitation swimming meet, Sunday, June 22, the 13th annual Bill Waite invitation golf tournament, Sept. 2-7, and the first Shawnee-Pocono Manor Festival of Golf, Sept. 8-11, are other "top" activities for the season announced by Shawnee's general manager Weldon S. Garrison.

Champion olympic, national AAU and intercollegiate stars will compete in the annual Shawnee swimming meet.

The swimmers will be selected from teams representing the South-Atlantic-Washington, D. C., Middle Atlantic, and New Jersey-New York Metropolitan Districts. This area includes most of the outstanding intercollegiate and club swimming teams in the East. The meet usually is a strong indication of how the National AAU Championships will be decided.

The Bill Waite Memorial Golf Tournament includes competition for both the country's leading amateur players and senior golfers with an opening day qualifying round to determine position in the championship and numerous other flights. Four days of match play follow the qualifying round.

Another highspot on the season's activity list is the Shawnee-Pocono Manor Festival of Golf. Something new for the visitors to the two famous Pocono Mountains resorts. Four days of play on both courses will determine the champions, both men and women.

First Settlers Were French

FIRST SETTLERS in Monroe County came into the Shawnee Valley from Ulster County, N. Y., and were of French descent.

Leaving their home community, the small band worked their way along the Old Mine Road from Kingston on the Hudson to the Pahaquarry Copper Mines in Warren County, N. J. This occurred before 1700.

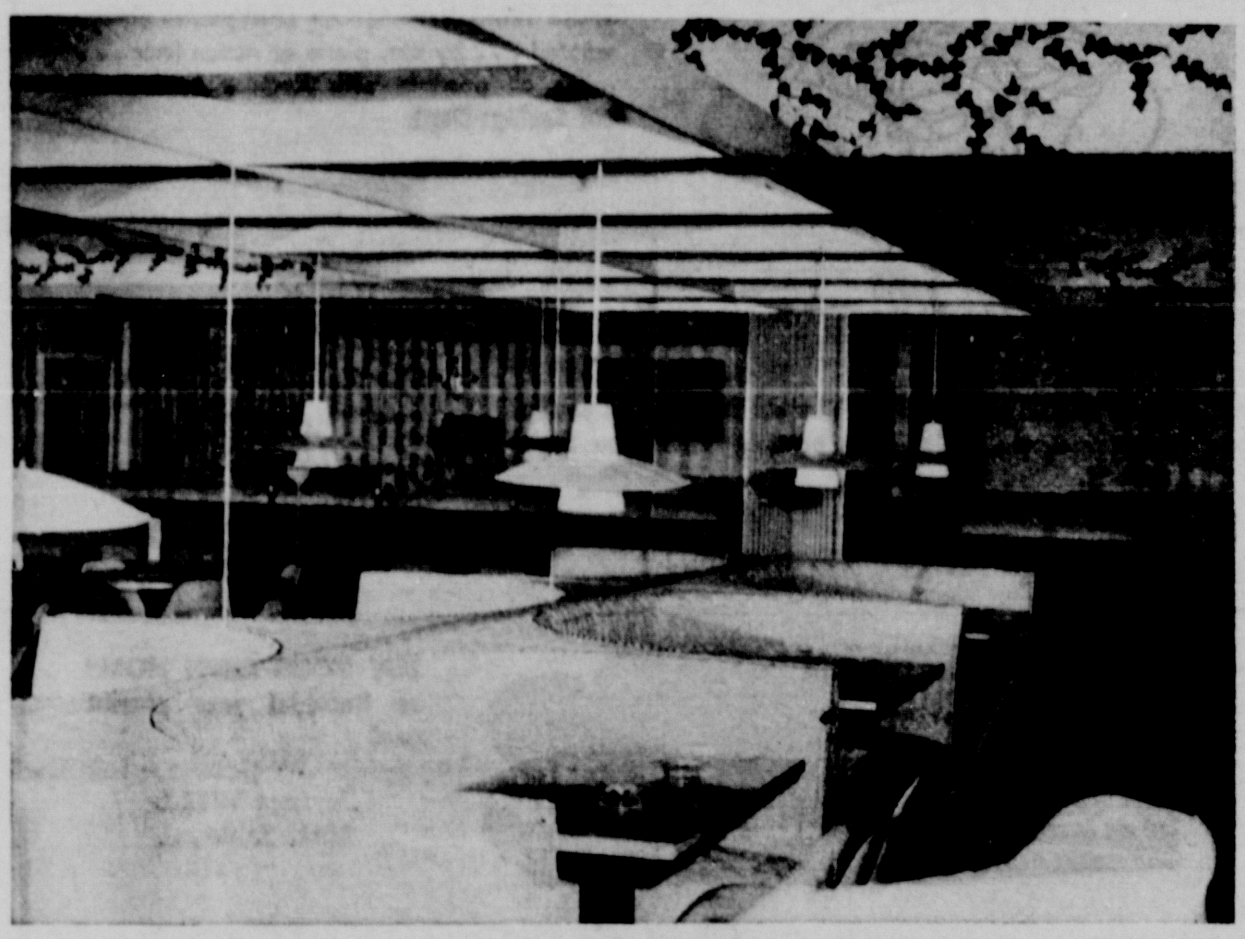
Near Larger Cities

THE POCONO Mountains are located almost equidistant from the East's great metropolitan districts of New York and Philadelphia. Both are less than 90 miles from Stroudsburg.



RELAX HERE—One of the fabulous highlights of Echo Lake Farms Hotel is the beautiful Candlelite Room cocktail lounge, shown above. Unexcelled splendor and decor are blended into a delightful atmosphere, featuring wall-to-wall carpeting, black and gold hour glass bar surrounded by ultra-modern furnishings and topped off at night by the soft, smooth dance music of Sammy Canova and his orchestra. The hotel is located on a beautiful, blue lake in the Poconos. It's like a private country club for a revitalizing vacation, happy holiday or honeymoon.

State Bird, Flower, Tree In Poconos

INSPIRATION for Pennsylvania's official State Tree, State Flower and State Bird came from the colorful Pocono Mountains region where all three abound.

In fact it was a legislator from the heart of the Poconos who sponsored legislation making all three official. He was then Rep. Chester H. Rhodes.

Today he is the Hon. Chester H. Rhodes, president judge of Pennsylvania's Superior Court.

Ruffed Grouse

State bird is the Ruffed Grouse. It was so-named by Act No. 234 of the General Assembly, approved June 22, 1931. Described in the act as "the king of the game birds" the ruffed grouse — bonasa umbellus — was also selected as the official game bird of Pennsylvania.

The Hemlock — Tsuga Canadensis Linnacus — became the State Tree by Act No. 233, approved June 22, 1931 by the Pennsylvania General Assembly.

The delicate pink and white Mountain Laurel was made State Flower by the Act of Assembly, No. 107, approved May 5, 1933. Its official name is "Kalmia latifolia."

Pocono Mountains Links Offer Best In Golf

TODAY THE Pocono Mountains is synonomous to golf. A host of courses grace the area — east, north, south and west.

Widely known, to the links gentry across the nation are such fairways as Shawnee Country Club, Pocono Manor, Buck Hill Falls and Skytop.

However a "new" one came into being this month with the reopening of the Wolf Hollow Country Club. The new name of the Delaware Water Gap course is Water Gap Country Club.

The links, which at one time housed such tournaments as the Professional Golf Assn. classic and Eastern Open, has been completely renovated from fairways, greens, clubhouse to country club.

A more than 6,000 yard course which tests the skill of the expert and duffer alike, Water Gap CC is situated in picturesque Delaware Water Gap a short drive from Stroudsburg.

Shawnee, the golf capital of the east, has its famed pros headed by Harry Obitz and aides Dick Farley, Ronnie Ward guiding the way. The "Swing is the Thing" gang promote such widely known tournaments as the Dogwood Invitational, Waite Memorial and the Festival of Golf.

Pocono Manor, pin-pointed across the nation by traveling pro Art Wall Jr., is rated one of the best courses in the world. Ideally situated in the hills, near Swiftwater and Mount Pocono, the links has been a challenge to such play-for-pay boys like Arnold Palmer, Masters' winner, George Bayer and Mike Fetchick, two of the longest ball hitters in the game, and Doug Ford another Masters titlist.

Jack Cuttle is the professional on the home site and the veteran playmaker is lauded as "the" teacher of pros and novices alike.

Skytop and Buck Hill Falls afford well-placed layouts to a guest and member roster. Ted Beadle is at Buck Hill and Harold Callow at Skytop. Both pros are considered tops in their field.

Commercial courses are dotted throughout Monroe County. On the outskirts of Stroudsburg is the Glen Brook Country Club, while near Marshalls Creek is Mountain Manor. Wiscaselt Country Club is at Swiftwater.

Mike Megargel of Cresco owns several courses of nine-hole variety in every nook and corner in the county.

Out near Kresgeville, Alex Traychneck's Indian Mountain Golf Course is open to the public, while near Snydersville, the Blue Mountain Golf Course is available to John Q.

Troopers Always Ready To Assist

WHEREVER you go here — or elsewhere in Pennsylvania — you will find State Police ready to give aid, or directions and information about recreational areas.

There are five State Police barracks in the Pocono Mountains region.

This organization, with its authorized overall strength of more than 2,200 men, is one of the oldest of its kind in America.

Carnivals Too

FIREMEN'S carnivals, featured in practically every section of the county, provide some of the excitement of rides and wheels, in contrast to their bucolic setting. The VFW and the American Legion also run big carnivals each year with the big West End Fair in August at the climax for summer fanfare.

Top Movies To Be Shown In Area

TOP MOVIES — Immediately after or just before their New York playdates—will be seen on the screen of the Sherman Theatre, Stroudsburg, this Summer.

Mickey Bernstein, manager of the local St. Cloud theatre, said that the recent booking of "The Bridge on the River Kwai" is the lead-off of a "blockbuster filled with entertainment" for the Summer months.

Among the hits slated for the Sherman in Stroudsburg are Lana Turner's new starring vehicle, "Another Time, Another Place"; "St. Louis Blues," a dramatization of W. C. Handy's life in which Nat "King" Cole, Ella Fitzgerald and Eartha Kitt are topcast; Marlon Brando, Montgomery Clift and Dean Martin in "The Young Lions," based on Irwin Shaw's best seller.

Academy Award-winner Joanne Woodward will make her first post-awards appearance in "The Long, Hot Summer" in which she is co-starred with husband Paul Newman, Orson Welles, Lee Remick and Anthony Franciosa. The Don Hartman production of Eugene O'Neill's controversial "Desire Under the Elms" is also on tap with Anthony Perkins, Sophia Loren and Burl Ives in leading roles.

Other Attractions

Among the others: James Stewart and Kim Novak in "Vertigo"; Shirley Booth in "Hot Spell" and "The Matchmaker"; "Rockabye Baby" starring Jerry Lewis; Cary Grant in "Houseboat"; Yul Brynner in "The Buccaneer" and "The Journey"; Elvis Presley in "King Creole" (an "adjusted" version of Harold Robbins "A Stone for Danny Fisher," tailored to Presley's needs.

Also Danny Kaye in "Best of Enemies"; Kim Stanley in "The Goddess"; William Holden and Sophia Loren in "The Key" and Rex Harrison in "The Reluctant Debutante."

Among the prize attractions of the Summer will be Tennessee Williams' "Cat on a Hot Tin Roof" with Elizabeth Taylor and "Gigi" by Alan Jay Lerner and Frederick Loewe in which Leslie Caron, Louis Jourdan and Maurice Chevalier are starred.

First engagement of Michael Todd's "Around the World in 80 Days" in this area leads off the roster of top movie hits coming to the Grand Theatre, East Stroudsburg, this summer.

According to Frank Meyers, theatre manager, the Academy Award winner is scheduled to play the Grand beginning June 18.

The remainder of the Summer schedule is loaded with top flight entertainment, Meyers said, and attractions range from the picturization of Diana Barrymore's story, "Too Much, Too Soon" starring Dorothy Malone and Errol Flynn, which opens June 1 to "Kings Go Forth," new Frank Sinatra-Natalie Wood vehicle which will be seen in late August.

June movies at the Grand will include, in addition to the Barrymore story and "Around the World in 80 Days", the new Debbie Reynolds starrer, "This Happy Feeling."

July Showings

Slated for July are: "God's Little Acre," starring Robert Ryan and Aldo Ray; "The Vikings" with Kirk Douglas, Tony Curtis and Janet Leigh; "Indiscreet", starring Ingrid Bergman and Cary Grant; "No Time For Sergeants" starring Andy Griffiths and the movie version of Erich Maria Remarque's "A Time To Love, A Time To Die" starring newcomers John Gavin and Lisa Pulver and filmed on the spot in postwar Germany.

Leading off the August parade will be the much-heralded motion picture based on Norman Mailer's war novel, "The Naked and the Dead." Others for that month include: "The Big Country" with Gregory Peck and Jean Simmons topcast; "Twilight of the Gods", with Rock Hudson and Cyd Charisse and the long-awaited Leland Hayward production of Ernest Hemingway's "The Old Man and the Sea," starring Spencer Tracy.

BONNIE LASS, BONNIE SCENERY—A pretty girl always helps a photographer feel like working, although in this case she's probably superfluous. Blooming flowers of the Poconos are sufficient unto their own right to justify your spending your vacation here.

Onawa Lodge To Launch 33rd Season Of Operation

MOUNTAINHOME — H. Irwin Shinnen, owner and manager of Onawa Lodge here in the heart of the Pocono Mountains, has announced that after a successful Winter season, Memorial Day weekend will inaugurate the beginning of Onawa's 33rd summer season.

In addition to the gala three day holiday on the 30th, the annual reunion has been set for the weekend of June 13th, at which time the Shinnens, hosts in the Poconos since 1926, will be on hand to greet their many friends and former guests who have already indicated their intention of returning and to make new acquaintances.

In the past few months several renovations have been made. The lobby interior has been redecorated with a new ceiling and modern indirect lighting lends a very pleasant atmosphere to the colorful public rooms.

Several private baths have been added to make bedrooms more desirable; the nine hole obstacle putting course has been completely refurbished and should entice many guests to exert their skills with the putter.

As in former years saddle horses are available at the lodge.

Mountain Lake House, Village Inn Open 40th Consecutive Year In Resort Trade

THE MOUNTAIN Lake House and Village Inn, Marshalls Creek, began their 40th consecutive year of successful resort business yesterday.

Elwood Huffman, manager of the hotel, indicates that this will be a very successful year. Reservations up to the present time are well in advance of last year and much interest is shown in all literature which has been mailed out to the former guests of this active resort.

While catering chiefly to a family type clientele, this resort also has excellent honeymoon accommodations and will remain open until Sept. 28 this season. The hotel operates only on the American plan, and all the many fine entertainment facilities are included in the rate. Riding horses and bicycles are also found available on the grounds for hire.

An experienced social director as well as athletic director are on hand during all hours of the day and during the evening entertainment to assist the guests in making their plans for activities. Three hundred acres of well kept ground afford ample space for even the largest of crowds, and the whole area is off the main highway where there is no danger of any transit traffic.

Huffman suggests an early reservation for all those interested in spending their vacation at this resort as our advance bookings are extremely heavy for this time of the year.

Mountain Lake House and Village Inn is located in the Pocono Mountains about 85 miles distant from Philadelphia and accessable by means of excellent highways from all points to the West and South.

Families On Vacation Need More Than Scenery, So The Poconos Offer Family Fun

SCENERY—even when it is as spectacular as it is in Monroe County—can soon pall on small children unless it is moving or they are doing something in it. Parents vacationing with small children would do well to foresee that if they want their vacation to bring the family closer together instead of having hair-pulling matches in the back seat or pillow fights in the hotel rooms.

In the larger resorts, planned programs of recreation for the children take care of that. In the cottage colonies, families have established Summer programs. But even for the family taking its "two weeks with pay" or even just a weekend, there are plenty of things which families can enjoy doing together.

The state parks offer opportunities for camping, boating, swimming, picnicking and hiking. The town playgrounds offer pools and sandboxes, swings and children of their own age. Some of the most beautiful falls east of the Rockies offer not only scenery in motion but trails and bridges and steps that delight children.

The Wild Animal Farm offers children a chance to feed from bottles the baby deer, aoudads, and kalakul lambs, and with crackers the tame llamas and deer and donkeys who follow them around the old orchard—as well as offering parents a chance to get some unforgettable pictures.

Collection

Maurene's Doll House in Mount Pocono offers a collection of dolls and doll furniture both antique and new. Phoebe's Little Wax Works brings to life the children's classics inn shadow-box settings. The Candle Shop at Canadensis has one of the biggest assortment of candles in the world.

Families can tour some of the unusual industries of the area: the National Drug Co. at Swiftwater; LaBar's Rhododendron Nursery of 150 acres of planting—and, of course, the Daily Record Plant in Stroudsburg.

Sawmills and farms, ceramic designs and hand weaving centers, antique shops and country stores can provide not only a lot of knowledge on how things are done but the joy of discovery for the family who keeps its eyes open.

There are fine restaurants specializing in many types of food from the Pennsylvania Dutch to Italian or French cuisine; but there are also the penny suppers put on by church groups and fire company auxiliaries. There are strawberry and ice cream festivals. All welcome the casual tourists.

There are two important guides to recreation for families vacationing in the Poconos: a booklet available at the Chamber of Commerce or on almost any store counter, called "This Week in the Poconos" and, of course The Daily Record where visitors as well as home folks can find out where they'll be welcomed, and where to do things together.

Recreation Plan

EAST Stroudsburg's program of recreation is administered by a recreational association which includes representatives of school board and council as well as private citizens. Facilities include an Olympic-size pool, a community recreation park, a large playground, three neighborhood playlots, and two school playgrounds.

State Parks Offer Much For Family

PENNSYLVANIA State Parks in the Poconos welcome families and provide a wide variety of recreation from simple scenic drives and picnic facilities to camp grounds, bathing beaches and lakes for boating.

Big Pocono whose mass dominates the sky-line from most sections of the county is one of the smallest and most accessible. It also provides one of the most scenic drives in the area as well as facilities for family picnics.

Newest park, opening just this year is Gouldsboro State park. It includes a white sand beach, bath house facilities, boat launching ramp, concession buildings, and picnic area. It is reached by a road which branches off Route 611 about three miles north of Tobyhanna.

Tobyhanna Park, nearby, has expanded its picnic area and added a boat dock, and its white sand beach is in condition for use this summer.

Promised Land is a forest park in Pike County 10 miles northeast of Canadensis, is well-equipped for camping and picknicking with swimming, boating and fishing available in the 420-acre lake.

George W. Child's Park, also in Pike County about two miles west of Dingmans Ferry is noted because of its three beautiful waterfalls, and is a favorite picnic spot.

Hickory Run, which is located near White Haven has facilities for picnicking, hiking, swimming and organized camping. Mountain streams offer excellent fishing.

The State Forest area near Resica on the Hutner's Range road has a woodland trail where every type of tree native to this section is labelled.

The Bartonsville Roadside Rest just north of Bartonsville is one of the most popular of the state's picnic areas.

Resident Facilities

STROUDSBURG has a 16-acre playground having soft ball and Little League fields, play and picnic area, a swimming and a wading pool. Playground is owned and supervised by the school district but leased and maintained by borough council, which also contributes to supervisors' salaries.

Wild Animal Farm Popular In Poconos

A TRIP to the Poconos is not complete without a visit to the Wild Animal Farm, the fastest-growing and, to thousands, the most popular attraction in the area. This is the farm now known by reputation as the place where one "goes right in with the tame wild animals."

When a first-time visitor enters the feeding ground of the Pocono Wild Animal Farm, he is totally unprepared for the kind of reception he gets. For Llamas, European and Asiatic deer, Karakal sheep, Silcilian donkeys and other animals throng around him, and unless he has been reared on a farm, it may be the first time in his life that he has been so close to animals of this size.

Timidity soon fades away for the visitor, because these animals are really tame, and as he pets them and gets to know them better, he immediately wants to photograph them. Then there is animal food to be had and the fun really begins. That is why squals, shouts and laughter are with the visitor all the way. People leave the farm saying, "I haven't laughed so much in years."

Baby animals are to be found in another feeding ground area and children, especially, are delighted at the opportunity of feeding baby animals a bottle of warm milk. Animals too large to be roaming loose, such as bison or zebras, or who for other reasons are unsafe for the public to handle, are to be found in corrals or cages.

Wide Variety

There are always interested observers to be found around the baboons or the kangaroos. Although behind fences, these animals are tame and come close to the visitor for a bit of food, thus offering unusual opportunities to the amateur photographer.

A collection that includes specimens from every continent of the world and many strange and rare animals makes this farm a unique attraction for thousands of visitors every year. Your visit should not be a hurried one. Part of the charm is getting to know creatures one never before has touched.

All ages from very old to very young find a lot of fun here. A shady picnic area affords the opportunity for an ideal day's outing for the family. There is a fire engine ride with clanging bell and screaming siren that adds delight for the children.

Dr. Claude W. Leister, owner and operator of the wild animal farm, was for many years assistant to the director and curator of mammals at the Bronx Zoo. His wide experience and knowledge assures the visitor of a varied and unusual collection of animals and new experiences that offer a never-to-be-forgotten adventure for everyone.

The Pocono Wild Animal Farm is located on U.S. Route 611, one-half mile south of Stroudsburg. So many people leave the farm saying, "Well, this is more fun than a zoo" that this phrase is now used as the farm's slogan.

Community Nights At Saylors Lake

COMMUNITY nights with fun for all will highlight the Summer program at Saylors Lake, Inc., Saylorsburg. The programs will be conducted by members of the Saylors Lake Fishing Assn. with Maurice Rose, president, as master of ceremonies.

The resort is anticipating a busy 1958 season with Howard Seitz and Ted Tilwick on hand to take charge of swimming, boating, fishing, rentals and admissions.

The pavilion crew is ready to serve the best in refreshments, groceries, sundries and gifts.

Square Dancing

Pool and ping pong, games and dancing to the juke box are among the planned activities. Luther Rehrig and his band will return to play for free square dancing every Tuesday and Thursday starting June 24.

The resort's tavern will once again be directed by Art Gewertz, who returns to Saylors Lake after two years in Florida.

The enlarged beach will be supervised by competent attendants. Comfortable cottages, close by, are available for rentals and sale.

Proprietors of the resort say, "No matter what you seek in a vacation, relaxation, recreation or fun, you name it, we have it."

Church Site Now Cemetery

THE SECOND house of worship in Monroe County was the old Dansbury Mission, of Moravian faith which was erected in 1744.

Located adjacent to the Dansbury Cemetery on Lower Main St., Stroudsburg, the land was donated by Daniel Brodhead, first land purchaser in the area.

The church was burned by Indians and never rebuilt. Later the Stroud family purchased the burial ground for a public cemetery. Interred there are eight soldiers of the American Revolution, including the borough's founder, Colonel Jacob Stroud.

Dogs In Review

BEAGLES and fox hounds found in the Pocono Mountains annually take down top prizes in the various club meets. The Monroe Beagle Club has its grounds in the heart of the Poconos and draws entries from New York, New Jersey, Delaware, Maryland and Pennsylvania.

Big Ones Available For Fishermen In Poconos

FISHING THE streams of the Poconos should prove a reward to any angler. During this year's pre-season stocking program, more than 30,000 trout—browns, brooks and rainbows—were poured into Monroe County creeks.

The area State Fish Warden, Floyd Bachman of Stroudsburg, noted at the time that this year's trout were "running a little larger," and fishermen were getting "a better quality instead of quantity."

The streams, of course, are not limited to trout. Pickerel, catfish, pike, bass, sunfish, perch, panfish, and others can also be found in Pocono lakes and streams.

Many anglers will also confirm the fact that should the little lady accompany her mate in his travels to the creeks and streams, she'll find scenic beauty that only the Poconos holds.

Among the best spots reported in Warden Bachman's annual fishing guide were the following:

Brodheads Creek — Brooks, browns, and rainbows from a spot open from the mouth of the Delaware River upstream to Analomink. Trout portion is about 10 miles in all.

Middle Branch Brodheads — Brooks and browns for a three-mile section from the junction with Brodheads at Canadensis upstream.

Buckwa Crook—Brooks for a 12-mile run from Saylorsburg to Little Gap.

Big Bushkill Creek — Browns from the mouth of the Delaware River nine miles upstream to Monroe-Pike County line. Upper six miles at Ressica for fly fishing and streamers only, according to regulations of the State Fish Commission. Creek limit is six, and minimum size is nine inches.

Devil's Hole Creek—Browns for a three mile stretch including B. K. Williams property upstream on State Game lands Number 221.

Dotters or Little Creek—Brooks in a run six miles long from Kresgeville to Jonas.

Lake Creek—Brooks from a spot at McMichaels Creek at Saylorsburg for four miles to Sciota.

Lehigh River—Browns and rainbows in a stretch beginning at Stoddardsville at Carbon County line for approximately 12 miles to a point where Route 611 crosses river near Ellis Corners.

McMichaels Creek — Rainbows and browns from the mouth of Brodheads Creek at Stroudsburg for about three miles to Kerr's Bridge at Glen Brook Country Club. By-pass Glen Brook Club, Hickory Valley Farms and Pomeroy Farms in the vicinity of Kellersville. Open for another two-and-a-half miles from Kellersville to Sciota.

Meixell Creek—Brooks for a portion open from Kunkletown upstream to headwaters, approximately five miles.

Middle Creek—Brooks for about three miles from Kresgeville to Jonas.

Pensyl Creek—Brooks from McMichaels Creek at Snydersville upstream for about seven miles to Camp Akiba near Appenzell.

Pocono Creek — Brooks and Browns open from (a) McMichaels Creek at Stroudsburg approximately three miles to Tanite Dam. (b) Bartonsville upstream for about five or six miles to Wilkie property. By-pass property. Open through State Game land number 38.

Pohopoco Creek—Rainbows and brooks for a three-mile section from Monroe-Carbon counties line upstream to bridge on Route 209, Kresgeville.

Scotrun — Brooks from Scotrun to Tannersville for about two miles.

Tobyhanna Creek — Brown and Brook from Tobyhanna for a five-mile portion to Warnertown. Also open from Ice Company Dam to Pocono Lake Preserve, a stretch of about four miles.

Pocono lakes also carry trout—such as Deep Lake and Snowhill Lake. Some of the other lakes such as Bradys, near Route 940; Naomi, near Pocono Pines; and Millponds, number one and two near Tobyhanna; Gouldsboro; and Brown's near Canadensis, hold:

Bass, pickerel, bullheads and perch. The Delaware River, known as one of the best spots in the East for small mouth bass and walleye pike shouldn't be overlooked either.

HE DIDN'T GET AWAY — Judy Ziegler, 12, is justly proud of this 17 and one-half inch trout she took from Paradise Creek at Henryville Lodge. On Route 90 in the Poconos, the vicinity of the lodge once drew such famous fishermen and women as Annie Oakley, Theodore Roosevelt, John Tanner Foote and James Whitcomb Riley.

of the trail, stretching up the steep side Mt. Minsi, one of the highest points in the Blue Ridge Mountains.

Non-Metallic Ores

THE MINERAL resources in and near Monroe County are non-metallic. Occupancy for more than 250 years has failed to disclose ores of metals except iron.

It is doubtful if there are commercial quantities of the siliceous brown hermite, bog iron ore, and oche which have been discov-

Poconos Attracting Strong Industrial Firms

NEGOTIATIONS with two industries—expected to invest $1,000,000 in plant construction—are being continued by representatives of Pocono Mountains Industries, Inc., the industrial development group of the Pocono Mountains Chamber.

One of the companies, a nationally-known organization with plants in Ohio, California and Puerto Rico, is expected to construct a model plant costing about $300,000.

The other, a New Jersey metal manufacturing company, is completing plans and financing for a $700,000 plant which will employ 200 persons.

The firm will initially employ 30 persons and is expected to expand.

It is expected to locate on a tract of land in the western part of Stroudsburg which was recently purchased by the Chamber of Commerce.

Negotiations with two other firms which previously indicated an interest in this area are now at a standstill, according to a spokesman for the industrial group.

Meanwhile, officers of the group are working quietly behind the scenes on two goals for the organization listed by Montgomery F. Crowe, president of the chamber and Monroe County Industries.

Crowe lists them as a $150,000 industrial expansion fund and 1,000 members in the Cramber of Commerce.

Crowe says the industrial expansion fund is needed to compete with other Pennsylvania communities which have large industrial funds, planned industrial parks and industrial buildings built for future use.

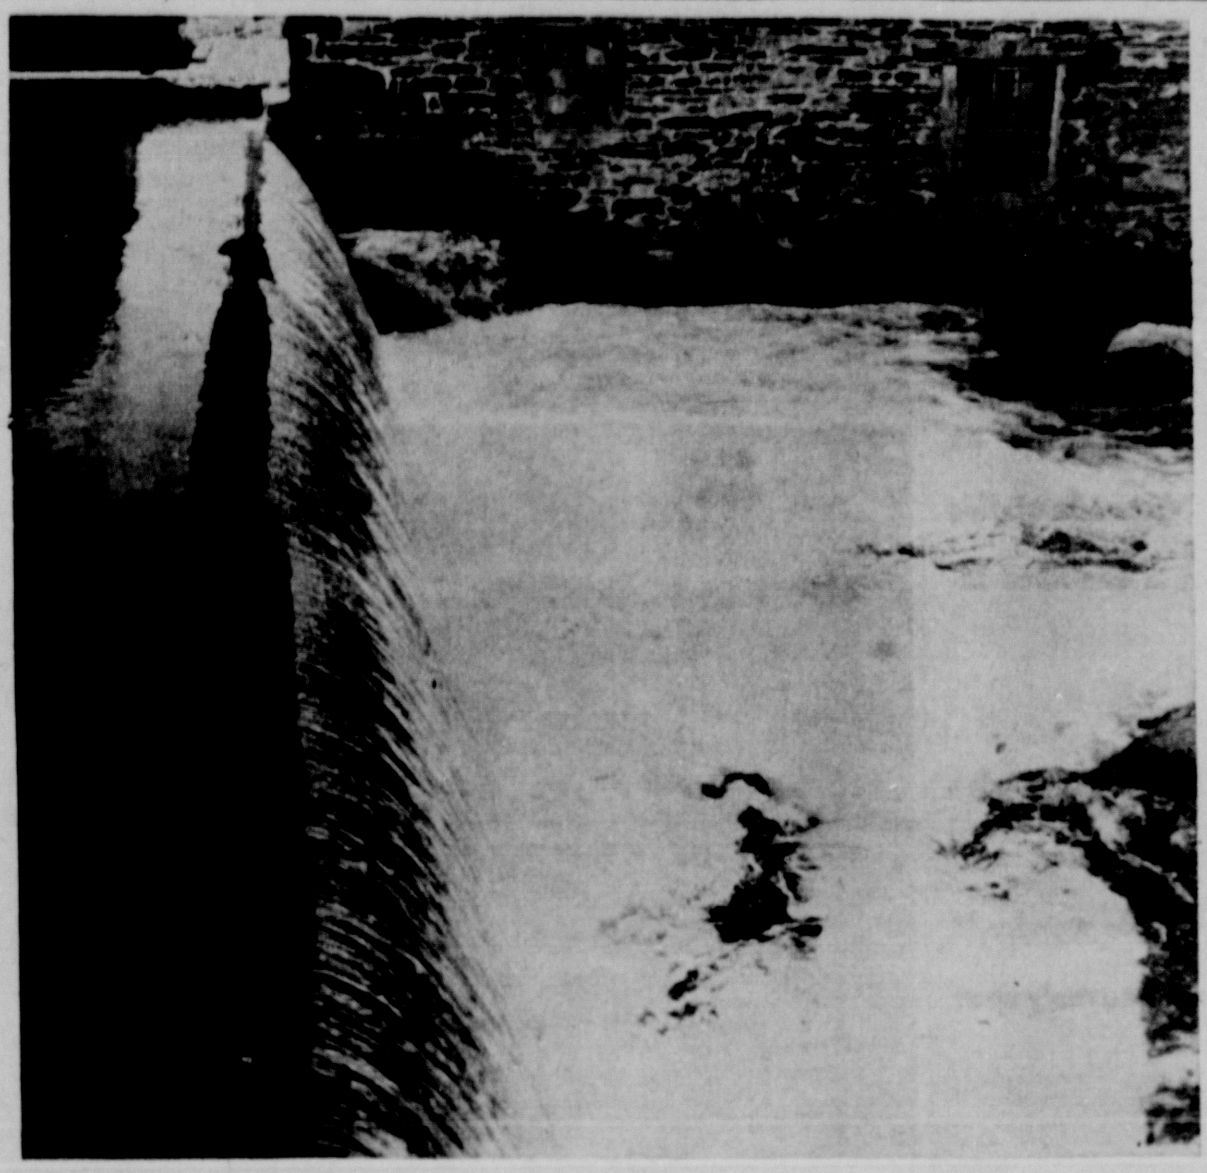
He has pointed out frequently that some communities in the state not only provide buildings for incoming industries, but that they are frequently the recipients of favorable tax setups and other advantages.

And he wants the Chamber of Commerce to be representative of all groups in the Poconos—business and professional men, merchants, resorts, industry and labor.

Crowe feels strongly that the organization must continue to grow or it will start backward.

He points to the industrial group's eight-year record as proof of what can be done, but also feels that more can and should be done.

The organization has been instrumental in bringing to the Poconos at least five industries, aiding in financing them through the Pennsylvania Industrial Development Authority.



RAPID WATER—Falls of all sizes, big, small and medium size grace the various streams in the Poconos, adding their touch of beauty.

SHOW DOGS—Dog shows and show dogs are popular in the Pocono Mountains. Many area kennels win some of the top prizes in the outstanding dog shows in the United States. Virtually every breed of dog may be found by dog fanciers visiting the Poconos. (Staff Photo by MacLeod)

Poconos Featured In Article

FRIENDS Magazine, nationally distributed by Chevrolet dealers, features an illustrated article on the Poconos on Pages Six and Seven of its May issue.

The travel article describes some of the varied attractions that make the Pocono Mountain area an appealing vacation spot.

Fine Spot

"A fine spot for making the most of a Summer vacation is Pennsylvania's Pocono Mountain region," says the article. "Covering an area roughly 40 miles square, the Poconos offer a wide variety of attractions, all easy to reach by car.

"There are numerous small lakes, waterfalls, streams and woodlands, providing beautiful surroundings for many outdoor sports.

"Historic Indian sites dot the area, and drives over the mountains afford sweeping views of the rolling terrain. Informal entertainment in the towns and hotels includes dances, fairs and 'straw-hat' theater."

Shortway To Link East With West

IT'LL BE some time—probably at least 10 years—before the Keystone Shortway, stretching across the state from Sharon in the west to Stroudsburg in the east, is completed.

But, chiefly through the efforts of the Keystone Shortway Assn., definite progress in the $300,000,000 project is already evident.

The association consists of groups of interested persons in counties due to be affected by the superhighway. Its chief opposition so far has come from the City of Philadelphia.

Among the more definite signs of progress are:

1. Bids have already been accepted for the Stroudsburg Thruway—the by-pass for Route 611—which is scheduled to tie in with the shortway in the east.

2. Bids are expected no later than November for the 27-mile by-pass north of Brokville in Jefferson County, also part of the shortway.

3. Bids are due before November on a 13-mile section of the Penn-Can Highway from Crescent Lake to Tobyhanna Signal Depot, which will also tie in with the shortway.

From Stroudsburg to Crescent Lake, a single highway will serve a dual purpose—taking Shortway and Penn-Can traffic in both directions.

At Crescent Lake, the shortway will swing to the west, while the Penn-Can Highway continues north toward Binghamton, N. Y. One interchange at Crescent Lake will serve both highways.

And J. L. Stinson, division engineer for the U. S. Bureau of Public Roads, has said public hearings will be held this Summer on two additional sections of the Shortway.

These are between Watsontown, Northumberland County, and Nescopeck, Luzerne County, in the eastern section of the state, and between Sharon and DuBois in the west.

Stinson has declined to predict when construction on the various stages will start.

It has been pretty generally accepted, outside of Philadelphia, that the highway cannot be completed in less than 10 years.

By that time, most highway officials feel, the Pennsylvania Turnpike will be paid for and its bond retired.

But Philadelphia says no. The Greater Philadelphia Movement has urged that all planning, engineering and construction on the VACATION PERFECTION—The lake, the mountains and its location in the Poconos rate Sunnybrook high for vacation pleasure. It is bright, cheerful and warm in the daytime, ideal for sports and bathing. Nights are cool and refreshing, just right for dancing under the stars in the patio. Main lodge and lake-front cottages leave the choice of sports and social activities to the guest, 200 of whom can be accommodated.

Lure Of Woodlands Bring Many Visitors To Poconos

THE LURE of the woods brings countless visitors to the Pocono Mountains each summer.

In this vacation paradise, the visitor can walk down wooded paths where fresh, green leaves form an umbrella from the heat of the day. He can kick the dried leaves and pine needles on the forest floor and breathe deep of the clear, invigorating air that makes you glad to be alive.

Here in Monroe County alone—part of the Delaware Forest District 19—there are some 307,869 acres of woodland. And the entire district, including Pike and Northampton Counties, there are 677,298 acres of forest land.

Northern Monroe and practically all of Pike County is a high mountain plateau 1,500 and 2,215 feet above sea level dotted with lakes, streams and waterfalls, making it an ideal vacation land and adaptable to forest growth, fish, game and other wildlife.

The present forest of Monroe and Pike Counties are dominated by hardwoods, interspersed with white and pitch pine.

In addition, there are stands of hemlock, spruce, balsam, fir, and tamarack. One will also find scrub oak, river birch, and other trees.

In Northampton, Monroe and Pike counties about one-fifth of the forest land is in public ownership and a tenth is owned by farmers. The rest is held by other private owners, much of it in large blocks.

Monroe County's 29 per cent of the forest area is in the hands of resort owners.

In the three-county area, he disclosed, 124,329 acres were in public ownership in 1950. And 46,705 of these were in Monroe County. Of the 562,341 acres in private ownership throughout the district, 261,164 were located in Monroe.

Monroe County is the home of one of the oldest forestry organizations in the country—the Pocono Forestry Assn., with headquarters at Buck Hill Falls. This association was founded in 1902 for the purpose of fighting forest fires throughout the Poconos. In later years, it directed its attention toward education in planting and forest development.

There are 17 commercial tree farms in Monroe County.

The district is covered by seven fire observation stations. They are manned about four months of the year.

TWO MAJOR softball leagues operate in the Pocono Mountain area. One is the Monroe County League which has eight teams, while the other is the Industrial League, also an eight-team circuit.

The Lu-Re-Co System

The Lu-Re-Co system of house construction, which is fully accepted by the Federal Housing Administration and by other similar groups, was developed through a research project of the Lumber Dealers Research Council. It has been proven to be successful through the construction of many thousands of houses using Lu-Re-Co panels. The panels, produced by the local lumber dealer, are nailed together in rigid jigs or forms to control accuracy and to minimize lost motion. The savings of production are added to savings in erection at the site. The panels are assembled easily and rapidly into walls of the home and since there is no time lost in measuring, cutting and fitting, the house is frequently completely enclosed at the end of the first day.

About The Plans and Specifications

ACURATE BLUEPRINT PLANS — A home must first be "constructed" on paper with every detail clearly defined, if the home builder would be assured of complete understanding and agreement among all concerned with the building of his home. In the interest of sound and better small home construction, each design in this book was engineered by technicians experienced in the specialized field of home planning. All blueprint working drawings include the folowing: basement or foundation plan; floor plans; front, rear and side elevations; wall sections and all necessary details. WHITE LINE RUNNING ACROSS Pennsylvania is route to be taken by 291-mile Keystone Shortway, four-lane, limited-access, toll-free highway linking Chicago with New York and Philadelphia. Two sections of Shortway will be built this year—Stroudsburgs Thruway or Bypass, and Brookville Bypass. Shortway backers are asking 42 miles of new construction each year with a 1965 completion date. Total cost is estimated at $300,000,000.

shortway be held up until the state can review completely all possible contingencies.

The Philadelphia group envisions the free shortway as cutting the throat of Philadelphia as a port, since it will provide more direct access from the west to New York City.

Shortway association members and other advocates of the highway say Philadelphia has nothing to worry about.

No matter the merits of either argument, when completed the highway should be a boon, not only to the Poconos, but to all the other communities along its 290-mile length.

BEAUTY LINE—This line of beauties will highlight the Water Follies to be held as part of the Four-County Firemen's Convention in East Stroudsburg next month. The Follies, now playing at the World's Fair in Brussels, Belgium, will feature matinee and night performances on June 17, 18 and 19. The Follies will be held at Memorial Stadium.

Water Follies To Highlight Convention

FOR THE FIRST time in the history of the organization, East Stroudsburg will entertain the Four-County Firemen's Assn. convention this summer.

Hosts for the visit, scheduled for the week of June 15, are the members of East Stroudsburg's Acme Hose Co.

Plans for the week-long observance are now being completed by dozens of committees and their members.

Church Services

Special church services on Sunday, June 15, will officially open the conclave.

One of it highlights will be the selection of a beauty queen to reign over the festivities. Entries are now being accepted from all fire departments in the four-county area.

Selection of the beauty queen will be made during a night performance of the water carnival which will be another feature of the week.

The water carnival, described by impartial observers as "great," will come here from its appearance at the Brussels World Fair.

A mammoth parade through the East Stroudsburg business district will climax the convention's business sessions and get-togethers.

It will be held Saturday afternoon with prizes for the best equipment, most men in line of march, best musical organizations and other categories.

Ample time for fun, as well as business, is being fitted into the schedule by members of the host company.

Mayor Donald V. Hock of Allentown, a prominent layman, will be the speaker for the church service which opens the convention.

Memorial Stadium

It is scheduled to be held out of doors, weather permitting, at Memorial Stadium.

The water follies will appear for three days with matinee performances scheduled for two of them.

Members of the host company are going all out to make the convention an event to remember, not only by the delegates, but by the community.

If they don't succeed, it won't be because they didn't try.

Pocono Mountains Real Estate Gains Available New Popularity In Cities

NEWLY completed superhighways—plus those still in the planning stage—have resulted in a marked increase in Poconos real estate inquiries from metropolitan dwellers.

This is the contention of an area real estate agent in a report on the availability of homes for those interested in buying dwellings and property in the Pocono region.

In breaking down the types of available homes in this area, the spokesman described three particular classes: Summer vacation homes and cottages, ranch type homes, and double and duplex dwellings.

Major Share

A major share of inquiries for summer cottages seek the structures along lake fronts, he noted. Many of the area lakes are already filled and consequently, this type is comparatively scarce.

There are, however, he continued, a larger share of this class of dwelling along creeks and in the scenic Pocono woodland areas. Smaller units can be purchased from prices starting at about $3,250.

The range continues into a $8,500 group, he remarked, and these are described as well "worth it." These are the homes having the conveniences many seek—conveniences the lower price group lack.

Some ranch type homes are also available, and the price bracket falls into a $15,000 to $18,000 category, it was noted.

Turnpike

Two family structures—both doubles and duplex—can also be found in the Poconos. Price ranges vary between $10,500 and $13,500, the source continued.

The northeast extension of the Pennsylvania Turnpike has shown a notable hike in inquiries from the Philadelphia area, it was noted, and a highway from the George Washington Bridge—anticipated by some New Yorkers—has accounted for inquiries from that city.

The available homes in this area are scattered throughout the Poconos without any particular vicinity having more than any other.

For those interested in building homes in the Poconos, the spokesman said, there is available acreage for dwelling construction outside the limits of many communities.

For the city-dweller or suburbanite interested in retiring to farm life, there are also some farms available, it was added.

Duckloe Showroom Interesting

VISITORS TO the Pocono Mountains area find a visit to Frederick Duckloe and Brothers showrooms in Portland, truly an interesting trip.

The plant specializes in Colonial Reproductions and have been engaged in that work since 1859 when the grandfather of the present owners delivered his first Windsor style chair.

While the nation's production habits have changed many times during these past 96 years, many operations in the making of hickory spindle Windsors at Portland by the grandsons of Frederick Duckloe today are basically the same methods used before the Civil War and the furnishings produced at their two shops are the same hand-crafted Windsor style originally made between 1700 and 1820.

Proper Curing

Proper curing and drying of hard maple and hickory lumber in the 1800's required as long as three full years before Frederick Duckloe could select the proper material for each of his chairs. The foot pedal lathe and spoke shave were modern tools of the trade then and hand sanding for many hours was necessary to each product. The craftsman's son, William J. Duckloe, was trained in the old school and his production over a period of many years was very limited as was the scope of his tools—never has automatic power tools been used and never had any mass production facilities been considered.

Visitors are welcomed at the plant and salesroom in Portland whether buying or browsing. They are open 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Mondays through Saturdays.

Outstanding Coaching Clinic Held Each June

TERRY BRENNAN, chief member of the coaching staff at the 15th annual Eastern Pennsylvania Coaches Clinic will bring an "Upset of the Year" title to the East Stroudsburg State Teachers College event June 16 to 19.

Brennan, head coach of football at Notre Dame University, with what was termed a mediocre Irish eleven, defeated Oklahoma, 13-7, last year, to stop the Sooners winning streak—the longest in the nation at the time.

Bill Leckonby

In a dozen years as head football coach at Lehigh University, Leckonby has guided his squads to 67 victories as against 38 setbacks and two ties.

Over the past three years, the Engineers have compiled an impressive record of 22 wins and only five defeats.

In 1950, Leckonby directed Lehigh to its only unbeaten and untied football campaign in history. For his success that season, Leckonby was named "Pennsylvania Coach of the Year" by International News Service and was co-winner of the George Gipp Award presented by the Rockne Club of St. Louis, Mo.

The 1950 team trampled nine straight opponents, scoring 301 points while limiting the opposition to 71. Leckonby's 1957 squad almost equaled this record, compiling an 8-1 mark while rolling up 206 points to 72 for the opponents.

While staying for the most part in its own class against long-standing rivals such as Lafayette, Rutgers, Delaware, Bucknell and Gettysburg, Lehigh has clashed with major opponents during Leckonby's tenure.

Leckonby-coached teams have made creditable showings against such opponents as Cornell, Columbia, Boston University, Dartmouth, VMI, Virginia and Brown.

Milt Bruhn

Defense will be the theme when Milt Bruhn, head football coach at Wisconsin University, steps to the rostrtum of the grid classes.

The four-day event, climaxed by a banquet, will have Bruhn occupying the spotlight, pin-pointing defenses of the Big Ten—the nation's top football collegiate circuit.

Bruhn, graduate of the University of Minnesota in 1936, was appointed head football coach at Wisconsin, Nov. 12, 1955, succeeding Ivy Williamson when the latter moved up to thte position of athletic director following the death of Guy Sundt. Bruhn, however, did not assume responsibilities of head coach until Jan. 1, 1956. He had been varsity line coach at Wisconsin since 1949.

Bruhn was born July 29, 1912, at St. Bonisacius, Minn., and attended Mound, Minn. High School where he won letters in both football and basketball. He enrolled at Minnesota in 1932, winning letters in both his favorite sports.

Guard On Champs

He was left guard on the Gopher elevens, winners of Big Ten conference championships in 1934 and 1935 and also claimants of unbeaten records for those two seasons. Milt also was catcher on the baseball team which won the Big Ten champianship in 1935 and he captained the team in his senior year.

Following his graduation, he went to Amherst College (Mass.) as football line coach and freshman coach in basketball and baseball. He remained there until 1943 when he returned to his alma mater, Minnesota,, as end coach for that season.

He joined the Colgate University football staff as line coach in 1944, then transferred in 1946 to Franklin & Marshall College as line coach, in addition to being head baseball and basketball coach.

At Lafayette

He went to Lafayette College in 1947 as line coach under Williamson and then came to Wisconsin with Ivy. His keen analysis provided excellent defensive performances for the Badgers the past seven seasons.

Milt is married, has two children, Peter and Mary Anne.

Dick Colman

Colman, a member of Princeton University's football coaching staff since 1945 and a player and coach under the late Charles W. Caldwell Jr. for nearly a quarter-century, was named Princeton's 16th head coach of football on November 11, 1957, ten days following Mr. Caldwell's tragic death and some seven weeks after Colman had been designated acting head coach for the 1957 season.

In his initial season at the Princeton helm, Colman, a "single-wing scientist" in the Caldwell tradition, who stresses the fundamentals and seeks to meld the expected with the unorthodox, led the Tigers to the championship of the eight-team Ivy League. His 1957 team won six out of seven Ivy League contests, upending previously undefeated Dartmouth, 34-14, to clinch the title in the final game of the campaign.

Over the years Colman has earned wide recognition as a fine coach and football strategist.

Commercial Airport Near Reality In Poconos

VACATIONERS and tourists alike will soon find commercial flying into the Poconos a reality. Awaiting the go-ahead for runway construction and lighting installation is the proposed new Pocono Mountains Airport.

The airport, located less than two miles north of Mount Pocono, is expected to be well toward completion before Winter's chill descends throughout the area.

Officials of the Airport Authority have expressed hope that the facility will undergo initial construction phases prior to August.

Among the specifications—or master plan as referred to by the authority—are proposed plans of a 5,700 asphalt runway, complete with taxiways.

An administration building and office space has been planned for a terminal area that will be supplied with a spacious parking area.

Plans also call for a new road—leading from nearby Route 611 to the airport.

The runway will be lighted for night flying for both commercial and private aircraft. Other facilities are also in proposed plans for the two types of craft.

Application has been made for airline service with an emphasis on seasonal traffic. One commercial carrier has contacted the authority, officials report, and expressed a desire to serve the facility.

Tentative discussions with at least one airline have posed a suggested plan for weekend service year-round weather permitting.

Less than two weeks ago, the contracts for runway construction and lighting installation were awarded by the authority. Both are subject to CAA and PAC approval.

General work contract—number one—went to H. R. Miller Company, Inc., Lancaster. The company's low bid, received more than six months ago, was $299,186.67.

The lighting contract—number two—was awarded to the Wildwood, N. J., firm of Airways Construction and Electric Co., who submitted a low bid of $25,387.

After final approval by the state and federal aeronautics agencies, the contracts are returned to the authority for its signature on a binding contract.

The Pocono Mountains resort area is currently provided with airline service into Allentown-Bethlehem-Easton Airport and the Scranton-Avoca Airport.

Both facilties are served by several airlines. Among them are Trans World Airlines, Allegheny, Mohawk, and American.

Hamlen's Airport, just off Route 209, and the present Mount Pocono Airport handle light planes coming into the area at the present time.

Many Thrills Present In Poconos

A GENUINE thrill awaits the traveler approaching the Pocono Mountains area, only two and one-half hours from New York and Philadelphia.

The region is unsurpassed in scenic beauty, rich in historic interest and steeped in the lore of the once mighty Lenni-Lenape Indian Nation.

Nowhere has nature been more generous than in the Eastern Poconos where a panorama of scenic splendor embracing mountains, rivers, lakes, woodlands and waterfalls, some renowned for their height. Dingmans, Silverthread, Resica, Bushkill and Winona Five Falls are all in this area. Combined with other attractions, they make a perfect setting for the ideal vacation.

No matter what the requirements, they are to be found in the area—modern motels, tourist homes and resort hotels—some of which offer accommodations for 500 guests.

Sports

Sports facilities in the Eastern Poconos are unlimited. Fishing, swimming and boating in its many lakes and streams, horseback riding and hiking over miles of woodland trails, along with tennis and golf, all are readily available.

In this area are upwards of 10 children's camps that provide an enjoyable and healthful Summer for 5,000 boys and girls.

Spring brings soft, budding foliage that adds new shades of verdure to the sombre evergreens. Roads are garlanded with dogwood. Laurel, rhododendron and other blossoms beckon the visitor into the out-of-doors.

Fall brings flaming foliage that brightens the landscape from mid-September to November. The countryside is a restless panorama of over-changing hues during the calm perfection of Indian Summer weather.

Beauty In Springtime

THE POCONO Mountains in the Spring offer happy hunting grounds for those with an appreciation of beauty and deep satisfaction in the wonders of nature.

All man made preparations for the vanguard of tourists pale beside the scenic splendor that nature provides at this time of year. The picturesque section of the mountains include the villages of Skytop, Buck Hill Falls, Canadensis, Mountainhome and Cresco, a five mile square area that offers breath-taking beauty at spring blossom time.

Scenic drives and woodland trails yield wild cherry and apple blossoms in profusion. Creamy dogwood and perfumed lilacs make a startling display.

Skinner Tale Retold

MILFORD—A three-mile sheer cliff forming the west shore of the Delaware River near here was the legendary setting for a tale which raftsmen always recalled when they made port there enroute to Philadelphia with their water-moved timber.

Dan Skinner, called "The Admiral" because he pioneered the lumber business near Milford and floated logs to the metropolitan areas, stopped at Brink's Tavern on many occasions with his raftsmen friends to toast the astonishing good luck of Brink.

The story goes that Skinner toppled headlong from the top of the cliff into the rock-filled river, and lived to tell the tale.

Each spring when the first raft arrived, crews hauled a barrel of red paint to the cliff summit and let the contents trickle down the rocks. The huge red stain was always pointed out to wide-eyed new raftsmen as Skinner's blood.

ODDITIES—Fishing and hunting oddities are plentiful in the Poconos. For proof, notice the large trout (left) caught in a muskrat trap during the Winter trapping season. Even more unusual is three bear cubs in the nest (above). The bear picture, taken by Daily Record Roderick MacLeod, is said to be a once-in-a-lifetime occurance. (Staff Photos by MacLeod)

Game Plentiful For Hunters Visiting Pocono Mountains

LATEST FIGURES indicate there are over 50,000 acres of State Game lands in the Poconos. This, in turn, has resulted in an abundance of all kinds of game throughout the area.

District Game Protector John H. Doebling, in reporting these statistics, also noted that "the Game Commission has tried to give liberal seasons and bag limits so the game can be harvested by the nimrods."

Annual Crop

It is managed for wildlife and produces an annual crop for the hunters of Eastern Pennsylvania, New Jersey and New York.

In an effort to further this end, he continued, "the Game Commission is currently reaaligning its field force. In recent years the District Game Protector has been responsible for all Commission activities in his District.

"In other words, he had to be an expert on law enforcement, public relations, propagation, all phases of agriculture, predator control and various construction projects.

"With the new alignment, the Commission will appoint 22 Game Protectors as Land Management Officers. They will be in charge of all phases of land management work in the state.

"The Commission has a corps of men to work on the State Game lands and the new land management officers will supervise this work."

Result of the revamped system, Doebling added, will be an overall program designed to give "the District Game Protector more time to spend on safety instruction, public relations, and law enforcement, and will enable the Commission to give much better service to all the citizens of the Commonwealth."

Currently there are two District Game Protectors in Monroe County, he remarked. In addition to himself, there is District Game Protector John Spenser of Mount Pocono.

"With the re-organization, Land Management Officer Duane Lettie of Waverly, Pa., will be added to the county staff."

Conservation

Officer Lettie is a graduate of the Ross Leffler School of Conservation, Doebling said. Since graduation ceremonies in 1936, Lettie has served the Commission as a District Game Protector.

'Officially, Lettie will take over on June 1, but he has already reported that he has made a survey of the local areas and has made some recommendations for the work until the official date arrives."

Noting the heavy deer hunting seasons annually, Doebling noted the recent remarks on research on big game with particular emphasis on deer.

According to Dr. J. P. Dinduska, Director of Wildlife Management, Remington Arms Company, Inc., "wildlife research is a newcomer . . . but progress is evident and already it's paying off to the advantage of sportsmen."

Big game research, he added, "has been especially productive of information leading to a business-like job of management."

"Today, many states are cropping twice the number of deer they did 10 years ago, and everyone's benefitting — including the deer population."

Amateur Baseball Is Active Here

The Class A Pocono Mountain League, featuring teams from Tannersville, Barrett, Lake Harmony, Analomink, Kunkletown, West End, Saylorsburg and Reeders provides fans of the amateur sport an outlet to watch a "live" game on Sundays and holidays.

Stroudsburg also has an entry in a high-class semi-pro league. The team is the Strouds, former champions of the Pocono Mountains, who are now pastiming in the Blue Mountain League.

The Strouds play Sundays and twilight contests.
